HARBOR AS INDUSTRY AID. AIM

Retiring, Incoming District Engineers Feted By S. A. Junior Chamber

CIVIC ORGANIZATION SPEAKERS EMPHATIC

Three Counties to Work to Get Development For Newport Project

Stimulation of industrial activity through the immediate development of the tri-counties harbor at Newport as a goal which the district should set for itself so that it may "grow up with the rest of the Southland."

This was the keynote struck and many times emphasized and backed by sound arguments, at the dinner given at St. Ann's Inn here last night by the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce in honor of the incoming and retiring United States district engineers, Major E. D. Ardery, who will leave Thursday to take command of the regiment of Sixth engineers at Camp Lewis, Wash., and Major Henry A. Finch, his successor.

Major Ardery was highly complimented for his persistent efforts in "seeing that the local project was properly represented to the government" by J. P. Baumgartner, who spoke as a representative of the harbor for the boosters in the three counties.

Records Lauded

The records of both the retiring and the new district engineer were presented to the diners, who displayed their admiration for the two army officials by rising and vigorously applauding. The only satirist in seeing Major Ardery give up command of this district, the speaker stated, lies in the fact that his successor comes to Southern California with a record equally as good.

Speaking for Riverside and San Bernardino counties, Mayor S. C. Evans of Riverside said, "We feel that the harbor at Newport is the shortest road to the rest of the world. I personally believe that both Riverside and San Bernardino counties will strongly back Orange county in this great project because of the great benefits to be derived by the inland country also. We're one big county, these three counties and your gain is our gain." Mayor Evans then concluded by saying, "If you don't get busy and build this harbor Riverside is going to dredge the Santa Ana river and have the harbor there."

Major Ardery touched on the personal friendships which had arisen through such meetings as this, and declared he was leaving with no little regret. He stated that his report and recommendations concerning the local harbor project could not yet be made public, but the report so far had passed the gauntlet of several of his subordinate officers and now was in possession

Movie, Stage Show Censors For Santa Ana Named By Council

A board of censorship, to pass on the merit of motion picture, vaudeville and road shows presented in Santa Ana, was appointed by the city board of trustees at an adjourned meeting held in the council chamber last night.

Mrs. Earl Morris, former president of the Orange County Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Association; the Rev. William E. Roberts, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, and Hugh A. Gerard, grocer and prominent member of the First Christian church, were appointed as censors.

The action of the city trustees came somewhat as a surprise to those attending the meeting, as no application or request for the creation of a censorship board had been made. It was understood,

Mussolini To Clean Out Fascism Ranks

ROME, June 24.—"Fascism has been shaken, but it will only lose its dregs," Premier Mussolini told the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon in his first speech since the murder of the Socialist Deputy Matteotti.

His government must remain in power, the Premier said, and will prove the efficacy of its policies.

"We cannot consider any demobilization of the Fascist militia at this time," Mussolini added.

U. S. ENVOY TO APPEAR IN PARLEY

Spokesman for President Says Unofficial Observer to Aid In European Session.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—The United States very probably will be represented at the proposed inter-allied conference of premiers at London on July 16 by the customary unofficial observer, but will not be officially represented, a spokesman for President Coolidge said at the White House today.

No formal invitation to participate in the conference has yet been received.

SAFE BURGLARS AT ALAMITOS GET $600

Burglars pounded and chiseled the combination off the safe in Scott Brothers' general merchandise store at Los Alamitos at midnight last night and escaped with more than $600 in currency. It was reported at the sheriff's office here today.

The safe-breakers gained entrance to the store by prying boards off the frame building. The combination had been chiseled off and the lock pounded through the door of the safe.

Small pools of blood revealed that one of the thieves probably injured his hand while pounding on a chisel. It is believed that the robbers wore gloves, as no fingerprints could be found this morning at the store by Herman Zabel, superintendent of the county identification bureau, and Ed McClellan, chief criminal deputy who investigated the robbery.

A considerable sum of silver was overlooked by the burglars, according to McClellan, who said a drawer full of silver inside the safe had not been opened to have left the place for some time. The intruders were said to have left the place by walking out the front door, which they unlocked from within.

Hammers, chisels and bars for gaining entrance to the store and used for breaking open the safe were taken from a tool box placed near the store for county highway construction workers.

3 Escape Term To Go to Church

NEW YORK, June 24.—When three men were arraigned in Yonkers city court charged with being disorderly, Judge David Gorfinkel released them with a stipulation that they go to church right away.

however, that the Santa Ana Ministerial association, at a recent meeting it held, discussed the matter at some length and the ministers went on record as favoring such a board.

The Rev. Mr. Roberts, when informed of his appointment, expressed great surprise, though, he said, he was well pleased at the action of the council in creating such a board.

Santa Ana's last board of censors went out of existence a little more than a year ago when the terms of the members expired. The board of trustees did not then reappoint a new board.

The duties of the members of the censorship board are to attend all motion picture, vaudeville and road shows and

FLYER SPANS U. S. UNDER 22 HOURS

Maughan Reaches S. F. Safely After Spectacular Jump From N. Y.

(By United Press Leased Wire) SAN FRANCISCO, June 24.—Fleeter, almost than the sun itself, Lieutenant Russell L. Maughan flew by daylight from New York to San Francisco Monday and the dream of American airmen of a dawn to dusk transcontinental flight became a reality.

A new era of aviation has been opened up by the courageous and successful adventure, army and civilian flying men declared today as congratulations were showered upon the daring army officer who left Mitchell Field, New York, at 2:59 a. m. Eastern standard time and arrived in San Francisco 21 hours and 49 minutes later.

It was past dusk when Maughan's record flight came to an end at Crissy Field, but airmen pointed out he had delayed at dawn, that the sun was up 37 minutes before the little plane hummed off into the west and that the flyer actually arrived 18 minutes ahead of schedule.

Takes Little Food

Maughan was "air sick" a couple of dozen times during his flight. He ate little, he said, between the time he left New York and his arrival here.

Face wind burnt, eyes flaming, red rimmed, sunken and bloodshot, hands trembling with sheer fatigue, the airman was bundled off to bed after he had sketched a brief, unromantic word picture of his epoch making flight.

"In the mountain country we made 140 miles an hour. Over level country, faster time, better than 150 miles, I think."

"We," someone asked.

"Me and my plane."

Sets New Record

Maughan flew alone in the first flush of day at Mineola. Before he banked down out of the skies here a new darkness had descended; the sun still was the fleetest, but Maughan had accomplished what no airman before him had succeeded in doing.

"For the first 200 miles the weather was fine," the flyer went on with his bald narrative. "Then for 150 miles we drove through rain. Then came 100 miles of fog. After that we had low hanging clouds all the way."

Twice he circled the field, the outlines of the plane showing like a bat against the murky blue of the fog-clouded sky. On his last turn Maughan apparently went toward the sea. Silence followed.

"Where is he? Can't he land?" were the anxious queries, and the army-like "reception committee" tried to "spot" the plane in the sky above.

Rousing Reception

Suddenly at the far end of the field, away from headquarters and the crowd, appeared a silvery shape sliding along the pathway of light thrown by a 500,000 candlepower electric searchlight, and as if at a preconcerted signal the crowd moved forward, hurrying the armed sentries aside, and, with men, women and children shouting hysterically, stampeded for the little plane.

Hands almost lifted the plane as it taxied slowly up the field, while Maughan wearily nodded and smiled, but still concentrating on the plane. Colonel W. E. Gilmore, Crissy Field commander, was at his side and while the plane slid along the crowd continued its vocal welcome, and the man unpacked his mail and the sun was borne across the field on the shoulders of his buddies.

Had Wonderful Time

Maughan was taken into air service headquarters and while the crowd melted away outside, told the story of the flight, ate a bite of lunch and was taken off to bed.

He did not beat the sun, but his first words were:

"I sure did have a wonderful time."

Today he slept, getting ready for the formal welcome to be accorded him at a banquet tonight, with the flying club of San Francisco as his hosts.

DEATH CALLS W. A. IRWIN AT BEACH

Residents of Newport and Costa Mesa Mourn Loss of Civic Worker

William A. Irwin, 57, well known real estate dealer of Newport Beach, and Costa Mesa, died last night at his home in Newport Heights following an illness of about a month.

Funeral services probably will be held Thursday afternoon from the Smith and Tutill chapel.

He was accredited with much of the development of Santa Monica and there and obtained several large tracts of land which he later divided into city lots and placed on the market.

Born in Michigan, Mr. Irwin came to California when he was 30 years old. Realizing that Southern California was destined to become one of the greatest industrial and tourist centers of the world, he engaged in the real estate business.

In 1920, Mr. Irwin saw wonderful possibilities for the Orange county beach cities and transferred his activities to Newport Beach and Costa Mesa. Until a month ago he had been unusually active in the civic and industrial growth of these communities. He was a member of the Chamber of Commerce and a well known civic worker. He was engaged in the real estate business at the time of his death.

Mr. Irwin is survived by his widow, four sons, Charles, Ralph, Will and Albert, and Mrs. Marguerite Arbogast, all of Newport Beach.

PROBE MYSTERY KIDNAPING OF YOUNG GIRL

Having forcibly taken a girl from the sidewalk near Second and French streets last night and having choked her when she attempted to scream for help as they threw her into an automobile and speeded west on First street, unidentified men were being sought by local authorities.

The police have no description of the girl, the men or the car. The incident was described as one of the most mysterious that has confronted the department recently. Even the woman who informed police of the asserted kidnapping is unknown. The police report states:

"At 8:40 p. m. a woman telephoned from Second and French streets that two men caught a girl who screamed and tried to get away from them. They choked her and threw her into an automobile and then drove away, going west on First street."

Motorcycle Officer V. Barnhill and Officer Robert Elliott immediately searched the vicinity and motored west on First street in an effort to apprehend the kidnappers, but saw no trace of the car or mystery.

A visit to the neighborhood of Second and French streets today disclosed that there was no telephone at that intersection. Residents a half-block distant who had the nearest telephones stated they had heard about the kidnapping, but no one had notified the police over their telephones.

An elderly woman who lives near the corner where the kidnapping was supposed to have occurred reported she heard "considerable commotion" on the street at 8:30 p. m.

Meanwhile, police officers were seeking information concerning the incident, desiring especially a description of the persons involved and a description of the automobile in which the girl was said to have been spirited away.

In the distribution of lesser offices the senate received more than its share.

ORATOR IN SKILLFUL SPEECH

Causes Long Outburst By Delegates In Referring to War President

MAKES PLEA FOR WORLD TRIBUNAL

Convention Adjourns to Await Party Platform Following Address

(By United Press Leased Wire) MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, June 24.—The Democratic National convention swung through its first session today, swayed by the skillful and forceful oratory of Senator Pat Harrison and cleared the way for its first big battle—that over the platform.

It was a hot day and it was still hotter in the garden. Harrison, nevertheless, swept the delegates with high pitches of enthusiasm and once, at the conclusion of a long demonstration for Woodrow Wilson, there was a moment when the great throng struck a revival note.

The band was playing "Glory, Glory Hallelujah." Suddenly a vision in white appeared on the speaker's platform and led the great crowd in singing.

Respect to Dead.

The vision in white was Miss Anna Case, star Metropolitan opera soprano, and she cast a momentary spell over the convention, which added to the striking tribute paid the memory of Wilson. In fact, the initial session was permeated with the atmosphere of respect for the Democratic war president. Every reference to his name brought cheers and applause and on one occasion a demonstration lasted approximately 15 minutes.

The closing scene of the first day found a little woman—Mrs. Reeves of the state of Washington—completing the tribute to the party's dead leader.

Reading a resolution honoring him as an incomparable American. Mrs. Reeves moved that the convention adjourn out of respect for his memory until 11 o'clock tomorrow. The motion carried. The adjournment committee went immediately to the Waldorf hotel to begin its deliberations over the party platform.

Hold Brief Session.

After meeting briefly, the resolutions committee recessed until 5 p. m. when the actual discussion of the platform will begin.

In a temperature around 90 degrees and in an atmosphere of still higher tension, Cornell Hull, chairman of the Democratic national committee, called the convention to order at 12:44 o'clock.

It required several moments for Hull to get order and he then introduced Cardinal Hayes to give the invocation.

Hayes prayed for benediction upon this country.

Particularly at this solemn moment, he said, these distinguished representatives charged with responsibility to select a candidate to lead the country, require God's guidance.

The convention, he said, should select a candidate "whose mind, heart and soul are lighted with the flame of pure patriotic love and service."

Wiseest of Rulers.

He asked that the Almighty continue to bless this country as the "happiest of people with the wisest of rulers and the best of government."

"Oh, Father of wisdom and justice, who has vested this nation in self-government, protect this great people on whom thou hast showered blessings."

"Give us, oh Father, charity toward all and malice toward none, that righteousness, justice and mercy may triumph forever."

"Aid us in knowing, loving and serving America with unaltered loyalty."

Cardinal Hayes concluded with the Lord's prayer.

Miss Case, opera soprano, then sang the Star Spangled Banner.

The whole crowd joined in the chorus, led by Miss Case.

Nominate Officers.

The official call of the convention was then read by Secretary Greathouse of the Democratic national committee.

It's conclusion, the temporary officers were put into nomination, Pat Harrison leading off as temporary chairman. Announcement of his name brought a round of cheers and prolonged handclapping.

Texas Woman Leading Battle For Ex-Legion Head as V.P. Nominee

UNITED PRESS HEAD-QUARTERS, Waldorf Hotel, New York, June 24.—It's one thing to vote against a favorite son—but it's another matter when that son is managed by a favorite daughter.

Miss Florence Sterling of Houston, Texas, and favorite daughter of the Lone Star state is here to see to that "other matter"—for Miss Florence as her friends all call her, is managing the campaign for Colonel Alvin M. Owsley, former Legion commander and Texas' favorite son, candidate for the vice presidency.

Besides being the most loved woman in Texas, Miss Florence is a real politician. She was unanimously appointed to organize the women's campaign committee for Colonel Owsley by a group of dyed-in-the-wool politicians. Brown-haired and blue eyed, with the sweet freshness of the open spaces about her, Miss Florence, without being pretty, is "mighty good to look at." She has a vivid, scintillating vivacity and a level business head.

In addition to managing Colonel Owsley, Miss Florence has a few other accomplishments. She is secretary of the Humble Oil company, secretary-treasurer of the N. S. Sterling investment company, the richest woman in Texas and the busiest woman in town.

On the fourteenth floor of the "Commodore Hotel" in New York, Miss Florence has brought her personality and a corps of busy women. She has organized a woman's committee for the vice-presidential campaign.

Did You Ever Hear of a Knitting Mill Failing to Make Money?

In estimating that the common stockholders in The Orange Blossom Knitting Mills will be paid 16% after the Preferred stockholders have been paid 8%, we believe we have kept well within the bounds of reasonable expectations. In order that you may judge as to whether or not our estimate is thoroughly conservative the following analysis is submitted. The figures are based on actual working conditions.

ORANGE BLOSSOM KNITTING MILLS PLANT

Land, 10 acres. Building, one-story fireproof.

Machinery:
3 full-fashioned hose machines.
1 press
1 shaping machine
1 finishing machine
9 seamless hose machines
3 power sweater machines
2 hand sweater machines
Misc. machines, dye vats and equipment, motors, etc.

Capacity:
Per week of 48 hours (one shift only). Net profit doz.
100 Doz. Silk Full Fashioned Hose .....$6,000.00
200 Doz. Silk Seamless Hose .....$6,000.00
45 doz. Sweaters .....$20,000.00

Net Profit per week .....$2,100.00
Per Year .....$109,200.00

If the plant is run two shifts on this basis the net profits should be just double the above figures. It would be possible to run three shifts, but we are not promising that, nor any other definite amount of profit. The policy of the plant will be left to the active management and the directors, who are selected by the stockholders. In estimating that common stock will be paid 16% after the preferred is paid 8%, we are figuring on a basis of only running at FIFTY PER CENT CAPACITY as follows:

Running Half Capacity:
Net Profit per week, $1,050. Per year, $54,600.

Distribution:
144,000 shares Preferred, 8% .....$11,520
184,000 shares Common, 16% .....$29,440
Surplus left on hand .....$13,640

$54,600

Conditions never get so bad that people quit wearing hosiery. If the time ever comes when the Orange Blossom Knitting Mills are only justified in running at half capacity, on account of depression, it will be a time when people will be thankful they own something that is still operating at a profit.

WHAT IS OFFERED INVESTORS

The Orange Blossom Knitting Mills is offering 144,000 shares of preferred stock, bearing 8% cumulative. With each two shares of preferred stock bought, one share of common is given without cost. In other words the stock is offered in units of:

Two shares Preferred, par $1.00 .....$2.00
One share Common, par $1.00 .....$1.00
$3.00

These units are offered in this first issue of stock at $2.00 per unit. The Preferred stock bears 8% only, but the common stock dividends are NOT LIMITED. The common stock, which it is perfectly apparent should be the more valuable, DOES NOT COST YOU ANYTHING.

It is desirable to get this new mill going at the earliest possible moment. We cannot sell a single share of stock above the 144,000. Considerable of that is already spoken for. We are not attempting to appeal to your home patriotism, on the strength of the general benefits which naturally follow industrial development. These facts are presented as a direct appeal to your good business judgment. Sentiment is all right, but in the main this is presented as a cold-blooded money-making proposition. You don't need a fortune to associate yourself with this company. Small investors are just as welcome as any. You don't have to pay all the money now. But please bear in mind that ACTION is the desirable thing.

The Way to Get Action Is To Tear This Out and Send It In At Once

Orange Blossom Knitting Mills,

I believe that sound, worthwhile, profitable industries should have the open-minded consideration of all good citizens. Without any obligation on my part, please let me have the details of your proposal.

of the board of engineers at Washington, D. C.,

Cost Less Than Thought

Commenting on the results of conferences with government experts who surveyed the harbor at Newport, the retiring district engineer stated:

"Many of you loyal harbor boosters who have been working for the development of your project have been under the impression that you will have to build an east jetty to keep the sand and silt constantly from drifting into the channel. The government engineers, however, believe that an effective way to keep the harbor entrance clear is merely to make the present west jetty sand-tight after dredging the inner channel. This, of course, will cost much less than constructing a new jetty.

"We find that no sand is drifting around the end of the present west jetty, and the water at that point is so deep that it is unlikely the channel would fill up, especially if a small bank protection north of the present jetty is constructed.

"It has been estimated that there are 2,000,000 cubic yards of sand and silt in the harbor entrance to be removed. At a cost of 25 cents a cubic yard it will cost only $500,000 to clear the entrance of the harbor. The next thing, of course, is to see that the west jetty is improved so that this entrance can not again become filled.

Offers Official Aid

"The strenuous and persevering efforts which you men of these three counties have been making surely will bring forth their deserved reward."

Major Finch then expressed his enthusiasm in being detailed as engineer to "the most desirable district in the world," and assured the tri-counties boosters that "the Los Angeles office will be glad to serve you whenever possible." Prior to the meeting Major Finch was taken for a cruise along the six-mile dockage line by officials of the Harbor Chamber of Commerce.

A message from C. C. Chapman of Fullerton, read at the meeting, stated: "For many reasons I see how useful and valuable the harbor would be to the nation. It would not only serve an ever-increasing population, but would also greatly enrich the government. We are bringing factories to this district, but their success cannot be fully assured unless we can provide cheap and adequate transportation both for the raw material needed and the finished product. The harbor is essential to the carrying out of this great program of making this a great manufacturing center as well as a successful agricultural district."

Would Capitalize Asset

Stanley Clem, vice-president of the Santa Ana Lumber company, told how his company had proved that shipping via Newport, even at the present time with the aid of barges, is feasible and economical. The possibilities of Newport harbor were a determining factor in causing officials of the largest window-glass factory west of the Mississippi to select this vicinity for their 25-acre factory site. Baumgartner, who was called upon a second time, stated. He explained also the saving which could be made if news print were shipped direct to Newport.

In closing, the publisher stated: "We would be plain fools not to capitalize on our harbor."

County Supervisor Leon Whittell also spoke "straight from the shoulder" urging prompt development of the project.

"I think the government should be virtually interested and should help us develop this harbor," he said, adding, "but we must first show Uncle Sam that we are behind our own project."

Scores Slow Action

This same argument was taken up by Dr. J. D. Thomas of Olive, who gave assurance that "there is no limit to the desires of the people in the back country to com-lete the harbor."

Tom Talbert, chairman of the board of county supervisors, spoke on "How the County Will Co-operate, and Its Attitude Toward Development of the Harbor at Newport." He literally "ripped up" the citizens of Orange county for being so slow in realizing the possibilities of the harbor, which, he said, should be improved by the people.

He added:

"By voting bonds good times are assured, money is placed in circulation. The bonds won't have to be paid this year. The first installment would not be due for another year and the bonds would be extended over a period of thirty or forty years. We vote bonds for roads that wear out before they are paid for and yet we admit that is a good investment. Then why should we not vote bonds for a harbor that will give more employment by making more business, and thereby helping conditions here forever?"

"Orange county should grow up with the rest of the Southland."

"We Can Do It"

"I see no reason why we can't afford to float a bond issue of a million and a half or even two millions in the fall.

"When the proper time comes, we can do it."

A. B. Rousselle added additional arguments for early improvements and pleaded for an immediate start on a harbor development program.

Prior to the speeches at last night's meeting, the diners indulged in lively songs and a rousing yell. The Santa Ana quintette from the Santa Ana Music company, under the direction of Glenn S. Turner, rendered several jazz selections, receiving great applause.

A trio of solo artists, including Ray Macy, pianist; Ames Beach, cellist, and Clayton, violinist, also scored a hit.

The stunt of the evening was an unexpected interruption by an uninvited Italian macaroni manufacturer, who was placed under arrest by the hotel management for disturbing the guests before it was realized he was merely playing a part. Clyde Ashen portrayed the role of the intruding macaroni king.

the entire district thrown into complete darkness after that time. The cut-out today was estimated to effect a saving of from 20 to 25 per cent of the day's load or about 35 per cent of a normal day's load.

POWER CONSERVATION MEET CALLED AT MESA

To discuss matters pertaining to the saving of electrical power, a mass meeting has been called for tomorrow at 7:30 p. m., at the Costa Mesa women's clubhouse, by the Newport Heights and Newport Mesa irrigation districts and the Fairview Farms Water company.

Representatives today said both power and domestic users in the district were anxious and willing to do their share in the crisis, and that Edison company representatives were expected at the meeting.

Those responsible for the call added that:

"Every man and woman on the Mesa is urged and expected to be present. Conditions are critical and the people should know just what they have to face. Irrigation, of course, calls for the greatest amount of water, and here is where the greatest saving can be made, but the women are also asked to be present because much saving can be made about the house, not only in the use of water but in the use of electricity."

COUNCIL ORDERS NO MORE SIGN PERMITS GIVEN

During the period of conservation of electricity no more permits for street lights or electric signs will be issued by the city electrician.

Electrician Inspector William Packard last night was instructed by the city board of trustees to grant no more permits until per mission is given by the council.

It was explained that this action is being taken by the city in a spirit of co-operation with the Southern California Edison company in its endeavor to reduce the consumption of electricity 25 per cent for the summer months or until the water supply in the mountains is adequate to furnish electrical power to meet the normal demand.

STREET LIGHTS BURN LATE AS APPARATUS AT FAULT

Persons traveling to the beaches at an early hour this morning and who found, according to their "complaint" made to The Register, that Santa Ana street lights were burning in "broad" daylight, undoubtedly did not see a mirage, according to W. L. Deimling, district manager of the Edison company here.

Deimling explained an automatic attachment was intended to cut off lights a half hour before sunrise—at approximately 4:10 a. m. today. But, he added, the company's log showed the lights were not shut down until 4:45 a. m. He attributed the delay to the faulty operation of the apparatus.

The manager added that he had instructed employees to make sure street lights in future were extinguished at the stated time.

SUPERVISORS INVESTIGATE POWER, AUTHORITY

An investigation to determine to what extent the county supervisors might go in reducing the use of electricity during the present emergency reported by the Southern California Edison company was scheduled to be made this afternoon after farm bureau representatives asked the board for an emergency ordinance limiting consumption.

Earl E. Campbell of Orange, regional director of the state farm bureau, as spokesman of the committee which waited on the supervisors, outlined the crisis now at hand and presented the requests of the agricultural interests for relief measures. Conservation of power by temporary restriction of its use in all quarters was the substance of the committee's appeal.

The supervisors expressed doubt as to their authority to enforce an ordinance of the character desired. District Attorney A. P. Nelson would be called into conference as soon as possible, it was stated, to give opinion on the question.

Canada last year had a record-breaking production of white arsenic, the output amounting to 5,158,617 pounds.

Grand Jury May Investigate S. A. Canyon Tarring

A grand jury investigation of the kidnapping of several asserted I. W. W. leaders and of the tarring and feathering of them in Santa Ana canyon more than a week ago is expected to be conducted in the near future, it became known here today when Thomas J. Sullivan, one of those said to have been tarred, identified G. P. Thompson as one of the raiding party that wrecked the I. W. W. hall at San Pedro.
Thompson was arrested last Sunday as a suspect, and he now is in the harbor jail at San Pedro facing a charge of kidnapping. R. M. Bigelow, another "Wobbly," also identified Thompson, according to Assistant Captain Longuevan of the harbor detectives.
Sullivan declared Thompson robbed him of $70 when he ordered him to disrobe for the tarring.

Buckeye Picnic Plans Grow In Interest

There is a twinkle in the eye of Bob Gram at the "White" Cross cigar stand every time the Ohio picnic is mentioned and it was declared today that Gram and Dr. F. W. Slabaugh had some extra-clever plans up their sleeves for amusement and entertainment of the hundreds of Buckeyes who will meet at Orange county park Friday afternoon to dine and dance and recall days down in the Muskingum valley or where the waters of Miami flow or on the shores of Lake Erie at Toledo or Cleveland, and in the interior near the state capital, Columbus.

The matter of transportation which bothered many Santa Anans, has been effectively solved by F. L. Burns and his committee who have arranged with the Crown stage for a bus to leave the local office at 4 and again at 5 p. m.

Every plan of committee chairman is being passed upon and approved by the president, H. J. Forsy, who today declared that in his opinion there would be 1500 persons attending the picnic, which is for all former Ohioans now residing in Orange county.

Friendships Renewed With Chicagoans

Dr. and Mrs. T. D. Palmer of Chicago visited last week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Flaggs. Mrs. Palmer was a delegate from the Chicago Woman's club to the recent biennial of the Federated Clubs held in Los Angeles.

Dr. Palmer was the former family physician of the Blees, Flaggs and R. J. Thompson families, and other former residents of Paw Paw, Ill., who are now making their homes in Santa Ana. Mrs. Palmer was a special life-long friend of the mother of Mrs. Walter Vandermast, and it was a delight for them to be entertained in the home of the latter, and also by other old time friends.

Dr. and Mrs. Palmer were given numerous rides in the county, and greatly appreciated the many beauty spots shown them.

Star Social Club

Members of the card club of Santa Ana chapter, O. E. S., will enjoy the hospitality of the W. R. A pot-luck luncheon, to which each member will add a prepared dish and individual table service, will be enjoyed at noon. Members will take the small people of the family with them, and a swimming party for youngsters will be an enjoyable feature.

Altar Society

St. Joseph's Altar society will hold its meeting on Friday afternoon of this week at the home of Mrs. John Rudolph, 921 Hickory street, her daughter, Mrs. Michael Lynch, being co-hostess.

All women of the parish, especially strangers in the city are given a cordial invitation to attend, as the delegates will make their reports of the convention being held this week in Los Angeles, and amendments to the by-laws will be acted upon.

Elks Will Entertain At Balboa Pavilion

As summer waxes, the hospitable members of Santa Ana's antlered herd, the B. P. O. E., continue to plan for delightful evenings for their sweethearts and wives, the latest announcement being of a gay affair to be staged on the night of July 14 for which date the Balboa pavilion has been leased.

Dancing will be the chief charm of course, but in their usual lavish manner the Elks plan to present an entertainment also while refreshments will be no small part of the evening's pleasure.

Loving Bequest Makes Trip Possible

Leaving at 6 o'clock this morning over the Santa Fe, Mrs. George A. Graham and her daughter, Miss Alberta Graham of 409 East Fifth street, embarked on a delightful summer's trip which will take them through the east to New York City and to Auburn, New York, their former home and the birthplace of Miss Alberta.

Niagara Falls, Toronto and the Thousand Islands will all be included in the itinerary and returning westward after the extended eastern visit, the Santa Anans will stop in St. Paul, also points in Iowa and Oklahoma. Adding to the pleasure of the trip is the sentiment connected with it, for it was planned and made possible three years ago by Miss Alberta's grandmother, Mrs. W. A. Venn who, previous to her death, planned the trip as a present to her young granddaughter upon the latter's completion of her studies at Santa Ana High school. A member of this year's graduating class, the young alumnus and her mother are enjoying the trip through the thoughtfulness of one who has become a dear and beautiful memory to them.

Business Women's Club

Purely entertaining was the program of the Business and Professional Women's club yesterday when the members met at St. Ann's Inn for the usual Monday luncheon. It was matter for self-congratulation among the members that the program not only was directed by one of the Business Women but also presented another, for Miss Holly Lash arranged the numbers which featured vocal solos by Tommy Hill, popular high school vocalist and duets by Miss Kathleen Owens, club member, and Cecil Fross Willets.

Mrs. George Parker, (Dorothy Meade Parker) was accompanist and also sang one duo number with Miss Owens, "Wake Miss Lindy," which was quite lovely. "I Love a Little Cottage" was Tommy Hill's first number, beautifully rendered and was followed by an amusing encore, "The Lightning Bug." Mrs. Willits and Miss Owens then sang MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" followed by "I Pass By Your Window" by Brahms-Lucas. The voices of the two seemed to blend beautifully. Miss Owens has a silver-sweet soprano while Mrs. Willits' voice is rich and full contralto. Mrs. Parker's voice is also contralto and its sweetness was marked in the duo number with Miss Owens, which they gave in response to continued applause. They were followed by young Mr. Hill in "Roses Are Blooming in Picardy."

Guests introduced were Miss Iva Garner, Mrs. Abbey and Mrs. Stanley Reinhaus.

Many of those present took tickets for tonight's dinner at the Y. M. C. A. which will be open to all business women of the city and other women who may be interested in acquainting themselves with the Y and the opportunities it will offer to women each Tuesday afternoon and evening.

For food and service that is different, dine at the Colonial Club, 2038 N. Main. Dinner served 5 to 9 p. m.

AN OPEN LETTER TO WOMEN

Tells of Mrs. Vogel's Terrible Suffering and how she was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Detroit, Michigan.—"My troubles were severe pains in my back and terrible bearing-down pains in my right side, also headaches and sleepless nights. I first began having troubles when I was 15, and they have increased as I grew older. A little booklet was left at my door, and I read what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for women and decided to try it. After the first week I could go to sleep every night and I stopped having that nervous feeling and got a better appetite. The doctor had always said that an operation was the only way to help me, but I never had any faith in an operation. Since the Vegetable Compound has started helping me I do not suffer the severe pains, feel stronger, and am able to do my own work. I am more than glad to tell my friends that it helps where other medicines have failed."

—Mrs. Gus Vogel, 6608 Felouze St., Detroit, Michigan.

A record of fifty years service must convince women of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Betrothals Weddings Receptions

Los Angeles Bride Is Alumnus of Poly High

At the home of Mrs. M. Petterson on West Forty-sixth street, Los Angeles, the marriage of Miss Fern Eaton Hill and Leslie E. Colman was solemnized Saturday evening, June 21, at eight o'clock. The house was lovely with potted ferns and white sweet peas, the decorative note of white and green being emphasized in an improvised altar before which the ceremony took place. The Rev. H. F. Burr, of the First Congregational church of Los Angeles, read the marriage service in the presence of only immediate relatives and friends. The bride was dressed in ivory georgette heavily beaded in crystal. Her veil of tulle was caught with a wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. R. C. Bradfield, a cousin of the bride, as matron of honor, wore a frock of poudre blue embroidered in crystals. Her flowers were shell pink sweet peas. George Matson attended Mr. Colman as best man.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. E. H. Hill of Orange. The romance had its inception when she and Mr. Colman were attending University of California where Miss Hill entered after graduating from Santa Ana Polytechnic High school in 1917. She completed her course at Berkeley in 1922 and is a member of Pi Sigma Gamma sorority. For the past year she has been associated with the research department of Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, specializing in foreign travel and statistical survey.

Mr. Colman also completed his studies at Berkeley and is now with the Standard Oil company of California at Los Angeles. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Colman of Oakland. The announcement of their betrothal was followed by a succession of smart pre-nuptial courtesies extended by their hosts of friends.

Following the wedding ceremony Saturday night a buffet supper was served after which the bridal couple left for a northern honeymoon. After the middle of July they will be at home in the Engstrom Apartments, Los Angeles.

Past Presidents

Mrs. Caroline Adams was a friendly hostess recently to her sister-members of the Past Presidents' club of the Daughters of Veterans who were entertained at her home, 527 East Washington street, at a pleasantly appointed luncheon.

Pink sweet peas centered the table and places were set by means of cards bearing garlands of pink posies. Mrs. Eleanor Adams Clayton, daughter of the hostess and Miss Kate Parkell, a sister served the enjoyable luncheon in courses. In the afternoon needlework and chat offered diversion.

Past presidents present included Mesdames Nellie Parker, Carrie Smith, Margaret Robertson, Elizabeth Adams, Emma Chapman, Floss La Bounty, Louisa Leach, May Thomas, Esther Gardner and Eva C. Bell together with the past presidents' mascot, little Nina June Robertson.

Relief Corps

Flag day was appropriately observed late last week by members of Sedgwick W. R. C. when a program was arranged by their patriotic instructor, Mrs. Elida Huntington. Other patriotic organizations had been asked to attend the ceremonies at G. A. R. hall where the program opened with community singing led by L. G. Archibald with Mrs. Estelle Ludwig at the piano.

Little Miss Arlene Crawford gave a spirited reading, "Tribute to the Flag" after which Prof. Archibald sang "Flow Gently Sweet Afton." "Our Flag and Patriotism" formed the theme of a splendid address by B. R. Ford. Mrs. Charles Johnson and Mrs. Emma Chapman sang "America, My Home" to the piano accompaniment of Ethel Troxell Thompson.

Captain N. M. Holderman gave a most interesting talk on his life in the service beginning with the days when as a lad of ten years, he was bugler for the Southern California Veterans' association at which met for many years at Huntington Beach. His father, a veteran of the Civil war, had been a member of the association. In his talk he spoke of the days of the World war and his experiences in France, paying tribute to the Santa Anas who were in his company. Veterans of the Civil war, he praised highly, declaring that they saved the nation in its hour of peril.

"When You and I Were Young, Maggie" was then sung by Prof. Archibald after which Mrs. Kate Sutton, the president, told of the department convention held recently in San Diego where a beautiful flag was presented the high school by the convention as a whole. Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. Johnson then sang "Silent and Drowsy Bird." Mrs. Sarah Brown read "When the Boys in Blue Are Gone" and a clever parody on "Curfew Must Not Ring Tonight" as an encore. Mrs. P. T. Porter read "Tribute to Old Glory" followed by an amusing parody on "Barbara Frietchie" and the exercises closed with community singing of "America."

Sedgwick Social Club

Friday, June 27, members of Sedgwick Social club will meet in the morning hours at G. A. R. hall to enjoy a pot-luck luncheon at midday to be followed by a program at 1:30 o'clock. Mrs. Manuela Smith is in charge of details of the program.

News Notes of Interest To Women

Quiet Charm Marks Home Wedding of Popular Pair

A simple but beautiful wedding took place last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. White, 1416 North Broadway, when their youngest daughter, Mildred Louise, became the bride of Elmer E. Christenson, at a 7 o'clock ceremony.

Charming decorations were in evidence, the prevailing colors being blue and gold, carried out by the lavish use of delphinium and Scotch broom. One corner of the living-room was arranged as a bridal bower with ferns and palms forming the green background for the massed blue and gold blossoms arranged in tall wicker baskets.

Beneath the graceful arch formed by the greenery, the bridal pair took their places as Mrs. Mary Griffith, sister of the bride, softly played Lohengrin's Wedding March. Just preceding the entrance of the bride, Mrs. J. H. Neale sweetly sang "I Love You Truly" by Carrie Jacobs Bond and De Koven's "Oh Promise Me."

Miss White's gown was of white lace draped over white silk crepe. A long veil clasped to her hair with sprays of orange blossom, fell to the floor. Her bridal bouquet was of roses and lilies of the valley and her sole ornament were the handsome pearls which formed the groom's gift.

The impressive marriage service of the Methodist Episcopal church was read by the Rev. Will A. Betts, pastor of the First M. E. church. A reception hour followed during which the new Mrs. Christenson tossed her flowers into the midst of the expectant group of friends where it was caught by Miss Clara Kramer thus chosen as the next bride.

Ice cream moulded in wedding bell form, bride's cake, punch and mints in blue and yellow, offered the appetizing dainties of the refreshment hour, enjoyed in the flower-decked dining-room and followed by the departure of Mr. and Mrs. Christenson for Big Bear where the honeymoon will be spent. Mrs. Christenson wore a chic little costume of roshanara crepe in white and yellow.

Upon their return Mr. Christenson will resume his place at the Robertson Electric company. His bride, who is an Anaheim High school alumnus, has acted in the capacity of bookkeeper at the Campbell Printing company. Guests at their pretty wedding were confined to relatives and a very few close friends.

Aid Society

Various sections of the First Presbyterian Aid society will meet in the near future, the northwest section to be entertained tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock by Mrs. C. L. Cotant, 1912 North Broadway when all members are asked to be prepared to sew.

At the same time the northeast section will meet with Mrs. George Richardson, 2320 Oakmont street and those unfamiliar with the location have been told that it is the second street east of Santa Ana, north from Santa Clara. The southwest section members will meet Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock with Mrs. J. J. Herschler, 211 South Birch street and each one is requested to bring a bit of fancywork to occupy her time and later to be donated to the bazaar supply.

Maccabees

Dancing to radio music will offer the very up-to-date entertainment to members and friends of the Security Benefit association of the Maccabees tonight at M. W. A. hall where Kennedy's Radio service will present a concert to be followed by dancing when they tune in on well-known orchestra concerts broadcasted from Los Angeles and San Francisco.

Members of the San Bernardino council will be among the guests welcomed and one of the pleasant events of the season is promised those attending.

Club catering a specialty. Just phone 2693, Colonial Club.

Details of Program To Be Presented At Recital

An event of annual recurrence to which Santa Ana music lovers look forward with an unusual degree of interest, is the recital in which Ellis Rhodes presents his advanced students and which this year is scheduled for tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock at the Ebull clubhouse.

Miss Ruth Armstrong of this city and Mrs. Charles McCullah of Anaheim will alternate at the piano and the program will open with "Una voce poco fa" (A Little Voice I Hear) from Rossini's "Barber of Seville" sung by Miss Zeldia Reeves.

Fred Rowland will follow with two numbers, "Oh Fair, Oh Sweet and Holy" and "For You Alone" by Geel. Miss Marceline Hoppen will sing "Love's Garden of Roses" by Wood and "Smilin' Through" by Penn, followed by Norman Price in two numbers, "La Reve" from Massenet's "Manon" and "In Summer Fields" by Brahms.

Grieg's "Cradle Song" will be the choice of Mrs. H. B. Van Dien and will be followed by two duos numbers sung by Mrs. J. M. Hitchcock and Norman Price. "A Night in the Wood" by d'Hardelot and "La ci darem la mano" ("Thy Little Hand, Love") from Mozart's "Don Giovanni."

La Rue Mayer will sing a single number, "Nocturne" by Curran. Monroe Sharpless will follow her with "Ah, Moon of My Delight" from Lisa Lehmann's "In a Persian Garden" and "Duna" by McCaskey. A traditional Hebrew melody, "Eilat" will be sung by Mrs. Herbert M. Sammis after which Reginald Taylor will offer "Caro mio ben" by Giordani and "The Two Grenadiers" by Schumann.

"Danny Boy" and Rachmaninoff's "Floods of Spring" will be given by Miss Holly Lash and the program will close with "Love is Mine" by Gartner and "Lolita" by Buzzi-Peccia, sung by Harry Lander, a nephew of the one and only Sir Harry and like his distinguished uncle, the owner of a most beautiful voice.

The affair will be open to the general public since the Ebull auditorium is amply large to care for the crowd of music lovers attracted by such a program.

Mrs. Rhodes (June Hamilton Rhodes) will be down from Los Angeles for the affair and it is anticipated that Miss Ruth St. Denis, her guest here over the week-end with her mother, Mrs. Edwina Hamilton, may return with her for the evening. It has been hinted informally that Mr. Rhodes may present a recital in the early autumn following the vacation in the mountains. Rhodes are going to devote the entire month of August. He has never appeared in recital here in the city where he has achieved such marked success in his studio work and his voice-building and training. Consequently such an event would be one of the noteworthy musical features of the season and would attract hosts of music lovers from Los Angeles as well as from all sections of Orange county where his fame as director of the Orange County Choral union makes him an outstanding musical leader.

Mothers' Circle

The meeting of the Mothers' Circle of the First Christian church which was announced for tomorrow afternoon, has been postponed on account of the Aid society birthday party to be held at the church tomorrow. No date was given for the postponed meeting but it will be announced later.

Dinner Guests Find They Are Members Of Bridal Party

One of the most attractive weddings of the season took place at the home of Frank T. Hoffman on McFadden street Sunday, June 22, at 1:30 when his daughter, Miss Evelyn Palmer Hoffman, was given in marriage to James W. Dickson.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Moffett Rhodes of the Spurgeon Memorial church. The bride in a poudre-blue gown, silver bandeau and slippers, with a bride's bouquet of butterfly roses, was accompanied by Miss Velma Miller in a frock of peach color. The bridesmaid was assisted by Merle Hall as best man.

The house was beautifully decorated with gladioli, carnations and dahlias, by Mrs. Frank B. Miller. After the ceremony, the wedding party proceeded to the Elks club where a bountiful wedding dinner was served. Dinner and decorations were cleverly arranged by Mr. Hoffman, father of the bride. A charming feature was when a large wedding hall decorated with sweet peas and ferns, was rung, showering the young couple with rose petals and rice. The final course offered cleverly arranged wedding bells in pink and white ice cream, with the mammoth white bride's cake, cut by the new Mr. and Mrs. Dickson.

Amidst a shower of rice and good wishes the young couple left for their honeymoon to parts unknown to the guests, Mrs. Dickson wearing a chic white flannel sport suit with touches of red, a white hat, red and white scarf and white slippers with red hose.

The entire affair was a surprise to friends and even to some of the guests who had been invited to be at the Hoffman dinner. The wedding had been announced as a July event, hence their surprise at finding themselves in a wedding party.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Dickson will live on East McFadden street and the bride will assume her place as a popular young matron. A graduate of Santa Ana High school, she later attended University of California, Southern Branch. Mr. Dickson is also a Santa Ana High school graduate.

Man Taken With Pretty "Mama" Given 290 Days

Ben Belden, arrested in company with Mrs. Helen Vance by the police of Fullerton, and who was charged with reckless driving, failing to stop when ordered by officers, and with illegal possession of liquor, must serve 190 days in jail and pay $100 into the coffers of the city of Fullerton.

Such was the punishment meted out by H. E. Hart, acting justice of the peace, yesterday, according to word received here today.

Mrs. Vance, 23, pretty and bobbed-haired, was extended clemency by the court. She will be released on the condition that she remain in the city of Fullerton.

ency by the court on account of her young children. Belden and Mrs. Vance were arrested early Sunday morning after a spirited chase. The race ended only when the Belden machine was wrecked when rammed by the police car.

Belden, was fined $50 and was given fifty days in jail for failing to stop when ordered by the police; $50 and fifty days for reckless driving and 90 days for illegal possession of liquor. Belden informed the court he not only would serve the sentence but also would serve out the fines in jail. Thus his incarceration would be 290 days.

SAVANT ARGUES WIFE DEATH ACCIDENTAL

A former Cornell university professor, R. L. Daugherty, today was analyzing before a jury in Judge F. C. Drumm's superior court department, the broken fragments of an automobile's steering apparatus to prove that an unavoidable accident caused the wreck in which Mrs. Stena Duncan of Montebello lost her life.

Daugherty, a mechanical engineer with a Stanford diploma and the Cornell chair as his background, was called by the defense of Benjamin J. Brooks, who is on trial for alleged manslaughter as a result of the wreck. His testimony tended to show that a mechanical defect in the car driven by Brooks, and not reckless driving or intoxication on the part of Brooks, himself, was responsible for the fatal crash near El Toro.

A broken tie rod from Brooks' car was passed around the jury box as Daugherty lectured on the character of metals and the things that cause them to fail in their duty. There was nothing in the nature of the specimen exhibited to indicate that it had yielded under the strain of high speed, the expert said. It had crystallized under the wear of long usage, the witness said, and might have behaved as it did with the car traveling at low speed. Part of the break was fresh, and part of it was an old crack, he said.

The broken fragments, themselves, were offered in evidence to support the defense's theory that the untimely parting of a steel rod sent Brooks' car from its course and caused it to strike the light sedan occupied by Mrs. Duncan and three of her women relatives.

Testimony as to whether Brooks was intoxicated or sober at the time of the accident was introduced by the defense attorneys earlier today. Brooks, himself, took the stand and declared that he had taken a small drink of whiskey before starting from his home in Los Angeles on the trip that ended in the crash at El Toro. He had imbibed no more liquor, he said. His wife, Lucille Brooks, corroborated his story regarding the drink before leaving home. She had not accompanied him on the trip.

Daylight Saving Brings Confusion In Santa Barbara

SANTA BARBARA, June 24.—Santa Barbara is experiencing confusion regarding correct time.

When a visitor comes to town planning to be entertained at dinner by a cordial hostess, he is an hour late and then greeting is frigid. But if one rushes through a hasty meal to attend the movies then he arrives an hour too early.

A daylight saving program was supposed to have gone into effect here at midnight Sunday. And the difficulty is that while many shops and business houses have adopted the light-saving schedule, theaters, hotels, and several of the larger business houses are running on standard time.

SEEK BUSINESS FOR NEW U. S. AIR SERVICE

CHICAGO, June 24.—The Postal Air Mail Service, about to inaugurate day and night transcontinental delivery, has left the field of romance and is making a bid for the patronage of business men. Paul Henderson, Second Assistant Postmaster General, announced here today. Present plans call for the day and night service to start July 2.

"On next Sunday at 6 a. m. Pacific time, one plane will leave San Francisco and at 10 a. m. Eastern time another will leave New York," Henderson said.

The schedule time westbound is 34 hours, 45 minutes, while the eastbound schedule is 32 hours, 5 minutes. The route of the transcontinental service measures 2,680 miles. Sections between Cleveland and Chicago, Chicago and Cheyenne and Cheyenne and Rock Springs, totalling 1,460 miles, will be illuminated for night flying. Lighting arrangements will be made later to conform to the shorter days of winter, Henderson said.

The service has been divided into three zones and the rates have been fixed at eight cents per ounce of fraction thereof.

Letters up to one ounce between New York and Chicago will cost eight cents; between New York and Omaha or Cheyenne sixteen cents and between New York and Salt Lake City or San Francisco twenty-four cents.

Letters carrying the proper amount of postage or mail stamps of special issue and marked "via air mail" will be rushed to the nearest junction point and put on board the first air mail plane. If the destination of the letter is off the air mail route it will be forwarded by the quickest means.

Special letter boxes will be put up by the air mail service. They will be installed in Boston, Hartford, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Detroit, Chicago, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, St. Louis, Kansas City, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Denver, Los Angeles, Portland and Seattle.

M'ADOO GAINS STRENGTH IN CONVENTION

(By United Press Leased Wire) McADOO HEADQUARTERS, NEW YORK, June 24.—"McAdoo will climb with 120 votes of the Democratic presidential nomination on the fifth ballot," was the claim advanced today by managers of the leading candidate just before the opening of the first day's convention session.

The new strength is said to have been garnered in last-minute deals with uninstructed and "favorite son" delegations. It will begin to display itself quietly on the third ballot and then will come in a rush on the fifth, according to the McAdoo enthusiasts.

The half dozen floor leaders furthering McAdoo's candidacy within the convention hall rely upon this strength to stampede their candidate through. With 600 votes, just 132 short of the nomination, McAdoo would be admittedly at his strongest.

Never, they say, has a candidate come so close and then failed in swinging the nomination. William Jennings Bryan called at the McAdoo suite and held a long conference with the Californian before going to the convention hall.

A statement was issued from the headquarters denouncing a report that McAdoo had cornered 2,900 spectators' seats in the convention, thus stacking the hall with his admirers.

McAdoo had been promised 1000 tickets and received only 200, the statement said. He didn't even have a ticket for his wife and his floor leaders could only be furnished with sergeants-at-arms badges.

CHINESE FLOOD CAUSES HEAVY DEATH TOLL

(By United Press Leased Wire) SHANGHAI, June 24.—The Min river has overflowed its banks in one of the most disastrous floods in its history, according to reliable reports reaching here from Foo Chow.

Foo Chow is three fourths inundated, many people are missing and are feared to be drowned, and millions of yen damage has been done, according to the reports.

The warehouse and milling district of Foo Chow has suffered large damage from the swift current, bearing great quantities of logs and debris among buildings, demolishing those of lighting construction and endangering shipping.

Heavy rains have ruined the rice and tea crops, adding to the monetary damage of the flood.

Higher water is expected today following reports from Yen Ping, that there has reached a level of sixty feet, eight feet above former highest water marks.

Rain continues to fall heavily throughout the Min valley.

HARLAN TO WED MISS PREVOST HERE, RUMOR

There was a stir in the ranks of deputies and pretty young attaches in the office of County Clerk J. M. In the meantime newspaper reporters were scurrying through film "Blue Books" and "Whose Who" books to ascertain the baptismal names of the two. It is hard matter to recognize film stars in ordinary life, sometimes, it was said, when they are devoid of the somewhat calomine effect of grease paint and penciled eyebrows.

Few screen luminaries operate under their true names and for that reason reporters were more

57 HOUR MAIL SERVICE FROM S. A. TO N. Y. DUE JULY 1

New Stamps Arrive Here In Denominations of 8, 16 and 24 Cents

ANTICIPATE FIRST TRIP

Philatelists of S. A. Plan to Send Dummy Letters Seeing Enhanced Value

The Statue of Liberty and the Santa Ana post office are going to be next door neighbors after July 1 when the government's daily air mail service, which goes in effect that day, will make available fifty-seven hour letter service between this city and New York.

Through this epochal arrangement, letters and packages mailed here will be delivered at the other end of the continent two and one-half days later if local persons care to pay an increased fee for the rapid service.

These facts were made clear here today by James E. Alexander, assistant Santa Ana postmaster. The local post office has 3000 of the new air mail stamps which are to be used in franking letters that are transported Eastward by the air planes.

Plan "Dummy" Letters. Government planes will begin their east-bound flight from San Francisco at 6 a. m. To "make" these planes, letters must be mailed here not later than 5 a. m. the preceding day in order to catch coast line train No. 77, which leaves Los Angeles at 8 a. m.

The actual elapsed time for the airships to operate between San Francisco and New York will be but 32 hours and 5 minutes, according to government estimates.

Many persons, including a number of local stamp collectors, it is understood, are planning to send "dummy" letters between San Francisco and New York on the day the service is inaugurated with the idea that covers will enhance in value due to the historical interest involved.

Stamps, in denominations of 8, 16 and 24 cents, are on sale here.

Three Zones Fixed.

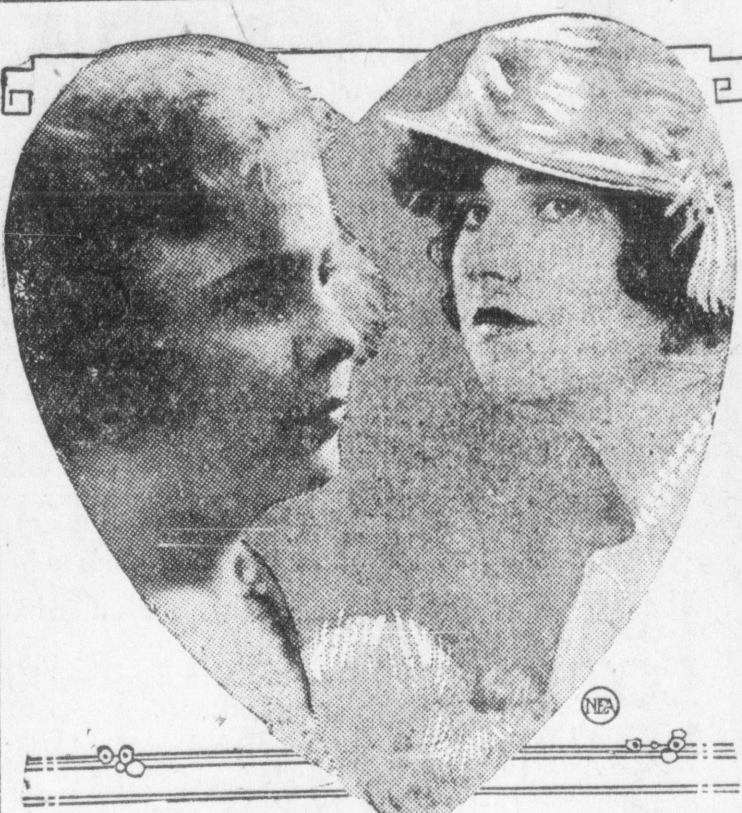

For rate purposes, the route has been divided into three zones, one between Cheyenne, Wyo., another between Cheyenne and Chicago, Ill., and the third between Chicago and New York.

An 8-cent air mail stamp will carry an ounce letter anywhere within one of these zones while it will require a 16-cent stamp to carry such a letter into the second zone and a 24-cent stamp to the third zone.

The mail planes will fly by night over approximately 1000 miles of lighted airway between Cheyenne and Chicago, the pilots being guided by automatic acetylene lights placed every three miles. Every

COUNTY AGREES TO SITE FOR SANITARIUM

Two of the three interested counties, Orange, Riverside and Imperial, have agreed, it was learned today, upon a site for the proposed tri-county tuberculosis sanitarium. A 52-two-acre ranch four miles north of Beaumont, Riverside county, is offered at a figure of $13,000, and Orange and Riverside counties, it was said, have already approved the site. Imperial's approval is expected shortly, according to committee men who have been conducting negotiations.

The site constitutes the Dr. Coffman ranch, located in the cherry growing section, at an elevation of 2000 feet. Sixteen acres are set to deciduous fruits, and a water supply is available for production of other foodstuffs needed for the sanitarium.

Plans call for a division of the cost and upkeep of the institution between the three counties, in proportion to their population based on registration for the last presidential election.

Pilot Must Face Trial in Liquor Influence Case

R. A. Fullerton of Santa Ana today was awaiting arraignment in the superior court here on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of intoxicating liquor.

At his preliminary examination held last yesterday before Justice Jack Landell, Fullerton was held for trial. He had previously posted $1000 bail, and this was allowed to stand.

The offense charged against Fullerton was alleged to have been committed at First and French streets, this city, where he figured in a collision. Carl Strock, local jeweler, was the other driver involved.

Attorney Darius Johnson defended Fullerton at the hearing yesterday. D. G. Wettlin, deputy district attorney, conducting the prosecution.

POLICE OF CITY NEW ROOSEVELT WINK AT KIDS. FIRECRACKERS SCHOOL BIDS GIVEN TODAY

Old Statute Disregarded So Young America May Come Into His Own

There are times when a city marshal must be deaf, dumb and blind.

At least that's the way City Marshal L. C. Rogers expressed it here today. For, it appeared, it was the time of year when kids and firecrackers are synonymous.

For be it known there's a law, or ordinance, or whatever you want to call it, on the statute books that prohibits the shooting of fireworks in the city limits of Santa Ana any day in the year, even on July Fourth.

And it's this time of the year that the chief must be deaf, dumb and blind if one is to take the literal translation Rogers puts on the definition of a police chief.

Evades Questions "Do you enforce the law against fireworks?" he was asked.

"Don't you think this is one of the warmest days we've had this year?" countered Rogers.

"Doesn't the law prohibit the shooting of fireworks in the city limits?" he was asked.

"You know," said Rogers, "I believe the Orange crop this year is going to be a bumper."

The proponent of the questions began to see the dawn of light.

"I guess one can buy fireworks in town but must go outside to shoot them," vouched the persistent one.

Friend of Kids "Have you ever been to Balboa?" asked the chief.

"Say, listen," came back the persistent questioner with a touch of exasperation in his voice, "why don't you arrest those kids that are firing those firecrackers?"

"Now you listen," came back the chief, somewhat ruffled, "were you ever a kid?"

The last seen of the persistent questioner he had four kids in tow and was coming out of a store the front window of which looked like the government arsenal.

REASONABLE BELIEF RUM SEARCH CRUX

An officer who has reason to believe that liquor is carried on the person of a motorist, or with in his car, need not have a search warrant to stop the motorist and search him or the car.

That opinion on a much-debated recent question was expressed here today by District Attorney A. P. Nelson. Nelson's opinion was in harmony with those expressed by District Attorney Kempley of San Diego, and Edward Bishop, county counsel for Los Angeles, county.

"Reasonable belief that liquor may be found justifies a search without a search warrant," Nelson declared. "The question of what constitutes reasonable belief rests with the officer, necessarily. The circumstances and the vary in different cases and are up to the discretion of the officer."

Detection of the odor of liquor would be one ground for reasonable belief, Nelson said.

5000 MILES IN 9-YEAR AUTO ANTICIPATED

It takes nerve to do this—to start out on a 5000 mile trip in an automobile that is nine years old, that has already traveled 80,000 miles and has been driven four times across the Rocky mountains and twice to Canada.

But this is exactly what James A. Smiley, veteran Orange county grower and president of the Orange county farm bureau, expects to do. He left here early today with Mrs. Smiley for a three-months' trip over the Rockies to visit friends and relatives in Kansas and Oklahoma. He expects to visit the Rocky Mountain National park and several other interesting places in Colorado on his way, and expects to return by way of the Grand Canyon of Arizona.

Hard Knocks Before "I don't expect to have any trouble," Smiley objected. "When a fellow goes out looking for trouble, that is generally what he finds, but I'm not looking for it. I drove that old boat up to Canada last year, over the worst kinds of mountain roads and all I had to do was buy a new spark plug."

Asked if he did not think the car was getting a little old for such long trips, Smiley remarked: "Why, boy, that car isn't. I'm just getting it broke in good. Had he turned up here in the good old o. k. and he didn't do a thing to it either but put in a little grease."

"I feel a lot more safe traveling over those rocky, mountainous roads than I do traveling around in Los Angeles and it's a heap more safe driving over the mountains than it is driving around here in Orange county. No sir, I don't expect to have any trouble."

To Make Another Trip "Most all the way of that 80,000 miles that car has been over mountain roads. In fact, it doesn't know how to travel over any other kind of road. We are expecting to have a big time on this trip, but I don't expect to buy another car when I come back, either. We expect to make another trip with the one we've got next year."

Smiley is well known throughout Orange county. He is at the head of most of the enterprises that are sponsored by the farm bureau, and has his hands full of work for the bureau at all times during the year. He will be 60 years old July 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Smiley will not camp along the roads, however. "I've had a score of these long trips and I haven't ever camped out yet," he said. "It's too late now. No, we will stay at hotels along the way, I guess."

C. OF C. CRISIS PARLEY URGED BY MEMBERS MAY BE SET FOR FRIDAY

Resignations Make Action Immediately Essential to Welfare, Is View

CO-OPERATION SHOWN

Expect Virtually Entire Membership Will Be at Meet When Called

Petitions asking that a meeting of members of the Chamber of Commerce be held with the directors of that organization for the purpose of co-operating in the filling of vacancies on the board today were filed with Secretary J. C. Metzger.

It was understood the meeting probably would be called for Friday night at the Frances E. Willard junior high school on North Main street. Predictions are made freely that virtually every member of the organization would be present.

The signatures appearing on the petitions were taken at random, just as members of the Chamber were found or met on the streets by the circulators. Those who circulated the petitions declared that only lack of time on their part prevented them from getting the signatures of virtually the entire membership.

Cooperation Pledged. They added that members desired that this meeting be called, and were determined to put their shoulders to the wheel and pull the Chamber out of its present crisis. Reorganization of an association stronger than ever was being anticipated.

According to one member the present crisis will do much to cement the membership into a more active body and that in the future harmony doubtless will reign in all the activities of the organization.

Following is the text of the petition, together with the names of the petitioners:

"A crisis has arisen in the affairs of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce.

"The secretary and six of the directors have resigned.

"It is important that action be taken at once to meet the situation, in the interest of the community.

"Next to the board of trustees of the city the Chamber of Commerce is the most necessary and important organization in the commercial life of the city, and it must be sustained and supported to such an extent that it will be honored and respected everywhere.

Attendance Promised. "For the purpose of considering and discussing the present situation, and, if desirable, of recommending to the board of directors suitable persons to fill the vacancies occasioned by the aforesaid resignations, and to consider the advisability of increasing the number of directors, we the undersigned members of the association in good standing, hereby request the proper officers of the association to call a meeting, in the near future, of all the members, said meeting to be held in the city hall or some other suitable place.

"We agree that such and every one of us will be represented at such meeting when called."

The petition was signed by: Orange County Trust and Savings bank, American National bank, First National bank, Pacific-Southwest bank, Farmers and Merchants' savings bank, Smart and Final company, Barr Lumber company, Raskin Dry Goods company, Smith and Bishop, Clyde Walker, F. P. Nickey Hardware company, T. D. Knights, S. Hill and company, William F. Lutz company, Bowles Motor company, E. S. Morrow, O. A. Haley, J. C. Horton, Abstract and Title Guaranty company.

LEGION'S FILM TRUE PICTURE OF LATE WAR

That the picture "Flashes of Action," at the Temple theater and sponsored by Santa Ana post No. 151, American Legion, is a "hit" was born out by the enthusiasm of the audience who packed the theater at the opening shows last night.

"Flashes of Action" depicts vividly the life of the American doughboy overseas and in the front line trenches. The picture was taken by the U. S. Signal Corps and has been approved by the United States government. It is designed to bring back to the ex-service man the stirring days of 1917 and 1918 and give to others a true idea of the world war and the conditions of the front when under bombardment by the huge guns.

Seven photographers were said to have been killed in obtaining these pictures as they went under the heaviest fire to get the pictures at close range.

Parts of the picture have been cut to avoid shocking unduly the feelings of the onlooker but the true conditions of the war, nevertheless, are shown.

Before each showing of the picture an atmospheric prologue is presented by members of the local Legion post. The prologue depicts everything in trench life from the dice games to actually going "over the top."

FULLERTON MAN GETS SEVERAL SENTENCES

FULLERTON, June 24.—Aftermath of a wild chase by the local police and the subsequent seizure of liquor secreted in wash tub filled with laundry and soap suds, Mrs. Helen Vance, 23-year-old Fullerton woman, comely and bobbed haired, and Ben Belden, 38, alleged bootlegger, appeared for trial late yesterday jointly on three counts: reckless driving, failing to stop when ordered by police officers and for having liquor in their possession.

The pair were arrested early Sunday morning after a long and a stern chase by a police car and only after the Belden machine had been rammed and wrecked by the former. The woman tried at first to take the blame for the driving, stating that she had the steering wheel while the man retained the controls. She also attempted to clear him by declaring that the liquor found in Belden's home belonged to her. She is quoted as stating that the four pints of moonshine found in the wash tub were all that remained of a five-gallon batch. Several empty demijohns supported this admission.

Belden was handed stiff terms by Judge H. E. Hart. These were as follows: $50 and 50 days for failing to stop when called upon; $50 and 50 days for reckless driving; 90 days for the liquor. He expressed his intention of serving out the entire jail terms for the alternatives provided in the fines.

Mrs. Vance, who at her trial disavowed her previous admissions, was given a suspended jail sentence of 60 days, clemency being extended by the judge on account of her young children.

SPEEDERS ARE GIVEN FINES AT BEACH

BEACH, June 24.—Fines of $145 were paid by 15 drivers at the city hall. Majority were arraigned before Judge G. G. G. on charges of speeding. The offenders failed to appear for trial and were given a suspended jail sentence of 60 days, clemency being extended by the judge on account of her young children.

NEW ENGINEER AT BEACH FOR DUTY

HUNTINGTON BEACH, June 24.—E. M. Billings, recently elected by the local city councilmen to replace City Engineer L. F. Gates, who resigned to take up other work, arrived here yesterday from Los Angeles prepared to take up his duties at once.

Billings was selected after considerable deliberation on the part of the city trustees. He came to the board highly recommended. He was the city engineer of Enterprise, Ore., for twelve years, and during the past year has been engaged in paving work at Watts.

WHO SOLD PROPERTY QUESTION IN SUIT

Did he sell it? Or didn't he? The question, referring to a Los Angeles residence listed for sale by its owner, F. R. Becker, with J. S. Arnold's suit against Becker for a $500 commission, is set for trial in superior court here tomorrow at 10 a. m. before Judge Z. B. West.

Becker, who resides at 1034 West First street, Santa Ana, admits that he listed the property for sale with Arnold, but denies that Arnold found a purchaser to buy the property on Becker's terms, $5500.

Arnold claims he found such a person, named as Rexie Hamilton, and that Becker then refused to sell. Arnold alleged that he was to get whatever amount was paid above $5000 as his commission. The firm of Dennison and Gerout, Los Angeles, represents Arnold, Attorney D. G. Wettlin being detailed as counsel for Becker.

RECORDER'S COURT FINES TOTAL $344

Nine persons were fined a total of $344 and one was sentenced to serve fifty days in jail by City Recorder W. F. Heathman, according to today's report from the police court.

Unable to pay his fine of $300 for the illegal possession of intoxicating liquor, H. J. Crane was committed to jail. Charles Baldona, who said he wished to die while he was on a "canned heat jag," was placed behind the bars because he could not pay his $15 fine for being drunk. W. W. Johnson was sentenced to serve fifty days on a charge of vagrancy.

W. Lake was fined $5 for operating a delivery auto without a license. Rito Regal paid $5 for passing a trolley car while passengers were alighting and Charles O. Graham paid $5 for parking in the restricted district.

Nellie Willis was assessed $5 for motoring with an offensive spotlight and $2 for parking in the restricted district. G. Padgett was fined $3 for backing his car into congested traffic, and W. A. Lewis and E. J. Mulligan of El Centro handed the recorder $2 each for parking in the restricted district.

Indigestion May Lead to Appendicitis

Repeated attacks of indigestion often lead to serious inflammation of the stomach and intestinal tract. This inflammation may finally extend to the appendix, which usually becomes infected through the presence of foul, irritating matter in the bowels.

It doesn't pay to ignore even the most simple warnings of digestive trouble. Neglect is responsible for much misery. Unpleasantness at the pit of the stomach, sour taste in the mouth, excessive gas, heartburn, nausea, vomiting, bitter risings, constipation, biliousness, dizzy spells and palpitation of the heart after eating are some of the most common symptoms of poor digestion.

If you are subject to any form of stomach distress, don't fail to try a bottle of Smith Bros' M.A.C., the guaranteed stomach treatment. This wonderful medicine usually gives prompt relief from all discomfort. In fact, it is sold on a positive guarantee of money back if the first bottle fails to do so. A large bottle costs but $1.25. ## FLEET HOLDING FINAL BATTLE MANEUVERS

Advanced practice "C", a spectacular experimental exercise, will be held by the battleships. Fifteen triangular black targets representing the enemy destroyer forces, set behind a smoke screen, will be located by guns of the ships without knowledge of their location.

The fleet leaves for northern waters on Wednesday. The dreadnoughts California, Idaho, Tennessee, Oklahoma, and Pennsylvania will sail from this harbor. Led by Rear-Admiral Frank H. Schofield aboard the cruiser Omaha, the destroyer divisions will sail from San Diego the same morning.

The U. S. S. Procyon, flagship of Rear-Admiral George R. Marshall, commanding the base force, will remain here until July 8 before she sails to join the fleet on Puget Sound.

SUICIDE NOTE CLEARS MAN OF SLAYING

(By United Press Leased Wire)
OAKLAND, Calif., June 24.—"Thank God the world now knows I'm innocent!" John C. Simons, aged beyond his 59 years and embittered after serving six and one-half years in San Quentin Penitentiary for a crime he always has maintained he did not commit, believes a note signed "J. Cameron," confessing the crime, which was found in a bottle in San Francisco Bay Sunday is authentic.

The note, written on a crumpled piece of paper, was dated March 14, 1924, and declared that the writer, a "poor, unfortunate road agent," had shot J. R. Bettencourt in Hayward in 1924. The writer of the purported confession said his clearing of Simons' name was his last act on earth, and from the tone of the note apparently committed suicide after throwing the bottle in the bay.

ONTARIO MAN LOST WHEN PLANE FALLS

(By United Press Leased Wire)
LOS ANGELES, June 23.—Week-end aeroplane accidents supplemented the usual toll of automobile disasters when one man was killed in two aircraft crashes in Southern California yesterday. Five narrowly escaped death.

Sam Miller, Ontario merchant, was drowned in Big Bear Lake when a plane piloted by W. D. Waterman plunged into the icy waters and sank. W. D. Ball, mayor of Ontario; Hugh Montgomery, hotel owner, and V. C. Beck, newspaperman of the valley city were rescued, when pleasure boats sped to the plane and hauled them aboard shortly before the craft sank.

Raymond D. Dutton, of Chicago, was seriously injured at the new Las Turas flying field and Pilot R. G. Malone was cut and bruised when their airplane hit an air pocket at 150 feet and came to earth.

OBITUARY

Theodore Willsey Scribner. The funeral of Mrs. Palmer E. Scribner, who died June 13 at the Artesia hospital from shock following an operation for exophthalmic goitre, was held on Tuesday, June 17 at Long Beach.

Theodore Willsey was born in Norwalk, Ohio, July 21, 1882. In November, 1907, he entered the training school for nurses connected with Lakeside hospital, Cleveland, Ohio, and graduated three years later. Lakeside Hospital unit will be remembered as the first to be sent to France during the late war in honor of Dr. George W. Crile the noted surgeon.

After three years of professional work Miss Willsey was married to Palmer E. Scribner of Painesville, Ohio, in which city she lived until her removal to California in December, 1922. There are left to mourn her loss her husband, Palmer E. Scribner, a small son, Robert W. Mrs. A. E. Collier, postmistress of Seal Beach, and Mrs. A. E. Seaver, of Denver, Colo., sisters, and Joseph Willsey, of Ashtabula, Ohio, her brother, besides other relatives.

The remains were interred in the Long Beach mausoleum after service conducted by the Rev. McNamara of Seal Beach Methodist church.

During Mrs. Scribner's short residence in Seal Beach she had endeared herself to hosts of loving friends and the beautiful tribute of flowers bore silent witness to the grief that was felt at the untimely passing of a beautiful soul.

Dora Willsey's entire adult life after her graduation from Norwalk, Ohio, high school, has been devoted to the service of others.

After her work in the cause of suffering, in her chosen profession came the years of faithful loving ministrations to the elderly father who passed away in the early years of her married life.

Never rugged in health she bore with patience the affliction which finally caused her death.

Her love for her husband and son was ideal and her only other desire was to live a true Christian life devoted to the service of her Lord and maker.

Her beautiful contralto voice was heard in the choir of her church each Sunday until her failing health compelled her to give up this loving service.

"Green be the turf above thee, Friend of my better days,"

None knew thee but to love thee None named thee but to praise thee.

Mrs. O. K. Johnson of 203 1-2 West Tenth street, who was called to Seal Beach, from Riverside where she was a guest of her sister, Mrs. A. B. Tuma, by the death of her life-long friend, Mrs. Palmer E. Scribner, who died at Artesia hospital following an operation for goitre, has returned to her home.

WIFE 30 YEARS
ASKS DIVORCE
AND $50,000

Claiming that her husband deserted her after thirty years of married life, Mrs. Bertie L. Wilson of Orange today had begun a fight in the superior court here for divorce and half of her husband's fortune, estimated at nearly $100,000.

In addition to her demands for an equal share of the community property, Mrs. Wilson seeks permanent alimony for the support of the couple's young daughter, 17 years old. Their other children are of legal age.

According to his wife's complaint, Charles L. Wilson, the defendant, is said to own ranch property at Orange and at Yorba Linda worth $118,000, beside a $10,000 home at Orange, $20,000 in stocks, and $15,000 in other personal property. Against these assets, his wife listed mortgage liabilities totalling $44,390.

Crops now on the trees of the two ranches were estimated to represent between $5,000 and $10,000, bringing the total clear assets close to $100,000. Wilson is said by his wife to have an annual net income of approximately $7,000.

From her own separate property Mrs. Wilson secures an income of $65 a month, she stated, designating that amount as insufficient to support herself and her daughter. She did not ask for any specific sum as alimony from her husband. Though he has secured approximately $20,000 income during the three years since their separation, she declared she has received only $1,000 from him in that time.

The couple married at Corder, Mo., March 22, 1892. Mrs. Wilson alleges that she was deserted at Orange July 4, 1921. Attorney L. F. Coburn of Orange represents Mrs. Wilson in the divorce proceedings.

TEMPLE—Santa Ana post No. 131, American Legion, presents "Flashes of Action," war film.

WEST END—"Racing Luck," with Monty Banks.

"RACING LUCK" ON SCREEN AT WEST END THEATRE
There has been any number of wild chases and rides on the motion picture sheet but none have approached the wildness that is seen in "Racing Luck" when Monty Banks, the star, rides in a big road race, driving a car of special make.

In a high-powered racing car Monty drives across hills, jumps streams, crashes through fences, billboards or whatever framelike barrier that confronts him in his making of one of the biggest comedy scenes in "Racing Luck," which is showing at the West End theatre. Monty takes all sorts of chances.

In the picture there is a gigantic plot on the part of a ward boss played by Francis McDonald, and his underworld henchmen to get rid of Monty but Monty, like a bad penny, always turns up smiling. He goes through some adventures that would drive a man of iron to suicide yet Monty fights and fights and finally wins out against insurmountable odds.

"HAPPINESS" PROVES COMEDY SUPERB AT WALKER'S.

When it comes to really first class comedy our hats are off to Laurette Taylor for her production of "Happiness," which came to Walker's theatre here last night. It is an actor since anything has appeared on the screen so light, deft and amusing as this picturization of J. Hartley Manners' play, which came as sort of a sequel to his famous "Peg O' My Heart."

On the screen "Happiness" outdoes "Peg." It is much smoother, peppier, if that is possible, and the general effect arrives at a more definite conclusion than the earlier picture.

Miss Taylor had established a place entirely for her own as the queen of comedienne behind the footlights, now she has won a similar niche in the realm of the cinema. No one we can think of possesses the same amount of personality and fire as this really great actress, and nobody can transfer her art to the screen as well as she.

An exceptionally fine cast supports Miss Taylor. This is headed by Hilda Hopper and Cyril Chadwick as the two loved persons, whose mental viewpoint is refreshed by the little Irish girl, and Pat O'Malley, who loves her.

"THE AVERAGE WOMAN" AT YOST LAST TIME.

There is much to be said about "The Average Woman," an interesting drama that opened at the Yost theatre last night. William Christy Cabanne, the director, has given to the screen an interesting portrayal of the average woman of today. This production, with its excellent cast which includes Pauline Garon, Harrison Ford, David Powell, De Sacia Mooers and others, is perhaps a direct answer to those who continually clamor that the woman of today is a bolder and more reckless personage than the young woman of her mother's and grandmothers' time.

Cabanne, with his splendid directorial ability, allows the modern young woman, complete away over her desires for pleasure, yet in conclusion he forcefully brings out the important fact that regardless of her hectic desires for joy, her self-willed independence and her desire for excitement, she still remains in the end a very respectable and prim person.

In Weight Tests

Santa Anans were interested today in a news dispatch received from Louisville, Ky., announcing that a Martin bomber, with a cargo of 1102 pounds and with two flyers, had broken the world's record for weight carrying during airplane flights. The plane is one of a type built at Cleveland by Glenn H. Martin, Santa Ana man and son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Y. Martin of this city.

According to the dispatch, the plane remained in the air for seven hours and twenty nine minutes. The former record was two hours and twelve minutes. Lieut. Harold L. Harris was the aviator who flew the machine at the time, and is the holder of both records.

Martin was in Santa Ana several weeks ago visiting his parents and at the time discussed airplanes of the future and what he expected them to do in the way of carrying weight and developing speed.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Peter Newhall, Augusta, Ga., flees to Alaska, after being told by Ivan Ishmin, Russian violinist, he had drowned Paul Sarichef, Ishmin's secretary. Dorothy, had urged him to flee to South America. He joins Big Chris Larson in response to a distress signal at sea, giving Larson his sea jacket. Their launch hits rocks. Larson's body is buried as Newhall's. Peter, rescued, finds injuries have completely changed his appearance. Dorothy and Ivan go to Alaska, to return Peter's body. They do not recognize Peter in his head guide. A storm strikes them at the grave. "Change name," a message from a seance, Dorothy believes to be from marriage proposal. Ishmin goes for supplies. Peter falls in a gully on a hunting trip. Dorothy finds her greatest happiness in rescuing him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

She knew now why, even from the first hour, the grim adventure on this shore had been thrilling to her. She knew why she had befriended Pete against Ivan, why his companionship had been so dear and his protection so comforting; and she understood why her whole world had passed into darkness when she had seen him fall. The first caribou hunt, on her first day in the hills, had given her what had hitherto been an almost forgotten joy; and every day since that joy had increased. Even from the first hour he had called to her, and she had answered. Evidently this love—and it could be nothing else—but love—had been predestined, a thing of the instincts that all the barriers of caste and circumstance could not restrain.

But it must never, never be. Only tragedy lay that way, and she had had enough of tragedy. She looked at the matter calmly; and she knew her only possible course.

The barrier between her and the guide was wholly impassable; and it must be forgotten like a vain dream. He was an exile in the North; she was of cities. He was of the storm and the windy shore, the desolation and the solitude; and she was of warmth and laughter and beauty. He was of another plane and caste, and never the two could meet. Besides, she had gone too far with Ivan to turn away from him. She had given him her promise. She had turned

She knew her course. In a few more days she and the man who loved her would launch their boat and row away; and Pete would be left on the desolate shore. They would never cross trails again. Slowly these strange, rapturous memories that already seemed like dreams instead of the living events of the hours just gone would pale and die just as many of the memories of Peter had paled and died; his rugged, homely, yet ever-familiar face would fade in her remembrance; and the drama in the wilderness would be dimmed by the mists of the past. She would take up her old gaities, and she would live for Ivan. In the moment of pain would pass away, and she would find the normal contentment of marriage.

As soon as the Russian returned she would remove all danger by putting herself forever out of Pete's reach. Thus she would defeat her willful heart, cheat the enigmatic destiny that had jested with her so long, and perhaps find a humble share of human happiness.

CHAPTER XVI

Ivan Succeeds

JUST before noon of the following day Pete—who was resting beside the camp fire—made out a moving speck on the distant, inland hills; and close scrutiny proved it to be Ivan, returning from his quest. In half an hour he would be at camp and Dorothy in his arms.

Pete understood perfectly the full significance of this return. It marked, indeed, the turning point in his own great adventure; his personal watch of the girl would be over, and a few hours thereafter she would sail away.

The one joy that was left him was to carry the good news to Dorothy and to watch the dear, remembered kindling of her luminous eyes. He made his way quietly to her tent.

"Mr. Ishmin is returning," he told her simply, still in the character of Pete the guide. "He's in plain sight already."

The girl's lips parted, but her face did not at once flush with pleasure. Yet her expression showed instant, unmistakable relief. It was all that was needed to convince Pete that the girl had found her happiness; and he was persuaded that her tenderness yesterday, after she had brought him home, was merely an instinctive reaction—an echo of her almost forgotten love for Peter Newhall—of which her conscious self made no interpretation.

The girl looked breathlessly into Pete's haggard face. Fortunately he did not guess the full truth; that his genuine relief was not at having her lover come again, but only because it permitted her to escape from her own doubts and fears.

She left the camp and trudged up the hill to meet Ivan. He waved to her, a motion brimming with vitality and spirit; and he was graceful as a caribou as he hastened to join her. Evidently the hard trip had left him unscathed. He was slightly more brown, perhaps, not quite so well groomed if for no other reason than he had left his shaving kit in camp, but there was no visible trace of fatigue in his dark, handsome face; no change in his easy, graceful carriage.

He held the girl close, and she felt the steel of his muscles. There was a world of reassurance here. When she returned to her native city, Ivan at her side, when all the witchery of this savage land had paled into dreams, she had every chance to find a full share of happiness in these strong arms.

"Was the trip a success?" she asked, radiant from his kiss.

"Do you think I'd come back if it weren't?" I had the best kind of luck. I didn't even get clear to the Pacific shore. A few miles this side I ran into a squaw, laying out a trap line. I got her to go back to her cabin on the coast and get a load of supplies for us, and bring it over as fast as she can—hard bread and canned goods and things we can use on the trip. She may get here tonight—she's certain to make it in by tomorrow morning. Then we can take the dory and start out—back to God's country."

"You started back as soon as you'd made arrangements with her?"

"Yes. There was no use to go on. She could bring all the grub she could spare without my help. Besides—I couldn't bear to be away from you any longer."

They walked arm-in-arm down to the camp, and Pavlov glowed at his master's greeting. "You're being comfortable?" he asked the girl.

"Perfectly. Pete has taken the best possible care of me."

"I'm glad to hear it. We'll add something fancy to his cheek when we pay him off." He followed Dorothy into her tent, and after she had told him of Pete's accident, he caught her yielding hands. "Dear, I've come back successful, and now I've got something to ask."

"WAS THE TRIP ACROSS A SUCCESS?" SHE ASKED.

It's the biggest thing in the world, but it's for your happiness as well as mine."

The girl tried to meet his vivid, magnetic eyes. By a supreme effort she shut from her mind the whisper of fear and the last lingering doubt, and opened her heart to his pleading. "I don't think I can refuse you anything now," she told him.

The slanting eyes glowed like great jewels in the eye sockets of a heathen idol. "We'll be starting tomorrow," he went on. "You and I and the two natives—Pete, I understand, is going to stay here and winter on the mainland. Dear, we have a long, difficult trip before us. We will be tied up at various places on account of bad weather, we will have to fight storms and rough seas—it will be a cold, tough, severe experience the best we can do. Besides that, it's really dangerous."

"But why think of the danger? There isn't any other course open." "That's just it—there isn't any other course. We can't stay here much longer; winter is likely to break any day. We can't wait any longer for the Warrior to return. But I've got a special reason for pointing out the dangers—dangers that only a fool would deny. It's wholly possible, Dorothy, that the trip will actually put an end to us. There will be constant danger of sudden storms—of being wrecked and lost on the reefs. It's a perilous trip, at best."

"It's best, on a trip like that, that I should be able to look after you and be responsible for you in a much greater degree than I have on this trip. But the main thing is—that if we are to go down to our deaths in the next few days, we want to find the greatest possible happiness first. I know a way that we can be sure of at least a few hours of perfect happiness—that death can never cheat us out of."

"Be merry," she quoted quietly, "for tomorrow ye may die!"

"That is the philosophy—the only philosophy. Not only to be merry, but to take all that life offers—and not let foolish conventional or propriety stand in the way. Dorothy, we love each other. We belong to each other. And there is no reason on earth why we should be kept apart any more."

"Pavlov is a native priest, as you already know. The marriages he performs are legal in all this end of the world. A marriage performed when a license is not procurable stands forever. Just the same, and all that legal end of it could be straightened up when we get to Seward. As for conventionalities—it is much more conventional to take that trip as my wife, even taking into consideration the character of the wedding service and everything else, than to go unchaperoned with three men. Ordinarily I would prefer to be married in old St. Paul's, as we have often talked of—with the flowers, and the music, and the beauty, and all that goes with it—yet you won't feel any lack of solemnity. The sea behind you and the winter clouds above, and those gray cliffs in front will thrill you as much as any vaulted ceiling of a cathedral. The sky and the sea and the hills—all the essentials—and the cross over Peter's grave."

His face was stark white. Evidently the idea of this marriage in the wilderness had fired Ivan's imagination. It appealed to some primitive part of him that she had never fully understood, and to which she could not reach.

Predict American Olympiad Victory

ALEXANDER BIG WINNER-AFTER
DISCOVERYVeteran Quits Pinch Mound
Pitching and Now Used
Only to Start GamesBY BILLY EVANS
(American League Umpire)Is it wise to use a veteran star pitcher as relief man when some pitcher is faltering?Managers of major league clubs appear somewhat divided on this question. Some throw their veteran pitchers into the breach any time it seems his presence on the rubber will save the game.Others use the star of their staff only as a last resort and in games where the winning means much to their pennant chances.It is doubtful if there ever was a greater relief pitcher than Ed Walsh, now acting as coach of the White Sox pitching staff. For a short time Walsh tried umpiring and was doubled up with me."How does it feel to be trotted out as the relief pitcher with the bases filled, knowing a hit just about means the game for the opposition?" I once asked him.Unpleasant Feeling
"The feeling is none too pleasant at the time and often worse
after it is all over," replied Walsh.
"I have worked, say three innings at top speed in order to save a game, and felt far more tired than after working a regular nine-inning affair."Grover Cleveland Alexander, famous pitcher of the Chicago Cubs, is a good example of what pinch pitching exacts on the arm.Alexander is one of the outstanding pitchers of all time.
When in his prime, acting as relief pitcher was part of his regular program. If a game was to be saved in the old pinch, the job was invariably slipped "Alex."Last season Alexander apparently decided that pinch pitching was no longer his forte, that it was enough for him to start and finish games.No doubt Manager Killefer concurred with Alexander in his views. Only once during the season was Alexander called upon to finish a game.When his regular rest of from three to four days between starts, Alexander, a star since 1911, had one of the best years of his career.TITLE COMPANY IN

versity of Wisconsin football eleven last fall, and who was the unanimous choice of Big Ten coaches as All-America tackle, will join the ranks of the benedicts soon.Wise men change their minds;
fools never—or words to that effect. Anyway, Miguel A. Gonzales is a big league catcher once more.How many ball players have returned to the big circus on the brink of the 40-year mark? Not many.Yet, Mike Gonzales, voted the best minor league receiver by every major scout who toured the American association last season, is back in the National league as a first-string catcher for the St. Louis Cardinals.Branch Rickey, director of the Cardinals, is the one who fits the cardinals, and the Cardinals fits
"Wise men" phrase.When Rickey decided to retire Jack Hendricks as manager at the close of the 1918 season and direct his club from the bench, his catching staff was composed of Mike Gonzales and Frank Snyder.Rickey had his own ideas about catching and catchers. He wanted a man of his own pattern and Gonzales and Snyder were part of the Miller Huggins regime.The Louisville Colonels had Vernon Clemens. Rickey wanted him and he acquired the husky catcher by trading Dixie Davis and Bruno Betz to the Colonels.With Clemens installed as the first string receiver, Frank Snyder was traded to the Giants for Ferdinand Schupp, while Gonzales was sold for $10,000 cash.For five years Clemens handled the bulk of the catching for the Cardinals. Gonzales became a bench warmer for McGraw and later was sent to St. Paul in the American Association.Time brings many changes. Clemens had lived his life as a big league in Rickey's opinion and another catcher was needed. He sought Mickey O'Neil of the Braves and "Dutch" Henline of the Phillies, offering Milton Stock as his bait. Naturally Dave Bancroft refused to part with O'Neil and Fletcher refused to consider any trade in opposition to Henline.DRUGGISTS HUMBLLED

BOWLS 50 MATCHES IN 7 HOUR

HANS NELSON

KENOSHA, Wis., June 24.—
Kenosha, the home of Dr. C. C.
Ryan, American Bowling congress president, is now laying claim to the distinction of having the champion marathon bowler of the country. Star of Hans Nelson, who rolled fifty games in succession against a squad of five veterans. He beat every opponent and in the fifty games Nelson compiled a total of 10,098, an average of 201.485 for each game. His high game was 266. It took him just seven hours to successfully triumph over his competitors.This is the first time that a bowler has endured 50 games of bowling and winning all matches.
With a record as made by Nelson, he would be the logical successor to Kenosha to send to any national or international endurance championship meet.The scores were as follows:

came to this country a couple of years ago, heralded as the mightiest atom in the history of pugilism.As a starter the promoters, bent on getting the marvel off to an auspicious start, threw him in against Jack Sharkey, a New York Italian, strong and sturdy, but hardly of the elite.The outcome was an international shock. Sharkey beat the great English representative, made him look bad and showed fine form himself.This was the beginning of an immensely successful financial career for the hitherto obscure Sharkey, and he landed many important bouts which yielded undreamed of purses.Wilde, knocked out by Pete Herman and Pancho Villa, is now returned, in England, living a life of ease on his own picturesque estate, rates as a man of independent wealth.Sharkey, knocked out by many,
is now helping second raters train,
a starring part and a rubber, a spot or a case note is big enough.
Enough at least for cats and a flop.Wilde, far seeing, practical, tem-

the British open golf championship, completing good cards today.Al Espinosa apparently failed to qualify, while Gil Nichols was close to the line. The best 80 or 250 starters qualified for the open.

TANGLE AT VERNONLOS ANGELES, June 24.—Two of the cleverest lightweights on the Pacific coast, Phil Salvadore and Frankie Farren, meet at the Vernon Coliseum tonight.Salvadore has not fought here recently. He is starting a new drive among coast lightweights and after his rest is expected to be in top form. Both Farren and Salvadore were beaten at Hollywood by Dick Hoppe, who in turn succumbed to Frankie Burns, but the class of tonight's principals was in no way shaded by the defeat.Another bout at Vernon which is attracting attention is that which pairs Young Datto and Tommy Carter, both hard hitters. Fred Sullivan and Nick Newman, light heavyweights, also are to be thrown together.

TEAM IS BEST
IN WORLDJack Scholz Fastest Short Distance Runner; Others
Give Him Hard RaceBY FRANK GETTY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)NEW YORK, June 24.—America will win the track and field championship at the Olympic games, with something to spare.Despite the new system of scoring, devised deliberately to make more difficult the inevitable American triumph, and the fact that,
with exception of the marathon,
the maximum number of entries permitted in any one event is four,the Stars and Stripes will be up the flag pole at Colombes Stadium often than the colors of any of the other 41 nations entered.If this country were represented by but one team, this might be a risky prediction, even with the apparently overwhelming strength of our men. But there are three or four teams over there at Paris, enough stars to win two championships at once, if one were held in Poland and the other in Peoria, Ill.In the sprints, for instance, we have eight men who are all so fast that if any of them are out of shape at the moment, others can fill their spiked shoes, and there will be no time lost. We have a plethora of short-distance men, and it really is too bad that only four of them can start in that final "100."Thompson Confident Colonel Thompson, chairman of the Olympic committee, a genial old gentleman and a wonderful sportsman, was particularly enthusiastic on this point as he galled on the steamship "America" with "my boys."The colonel whispered a prediction,
"not for publication," that—well,
he thinks the way the rest of us do about this country's chances of victory.Too good a sportsman to dwell entirely on our chances of victory, however, Col. Thompson sounded the keynote for America's entry in this eighth Olympiad, saying:"We are taking over about 350 of the finest specimens of this country's young manhood and young womanhood. They have been selected after a process of elimination in which probably 10,000 competitors entered.""They have broken world after world record. But now they are animated by one single purpose, to do honor to the United States at Paris. I find this in my talk with them. Each man is ready to sink his personality in his American citizen; each girl as well.""Our one great object in Paris will be to be upon the best of terms with all nations. When we win, we will win fairly; when we lose,
we will lose like gentlemen."The colonel declared the final 100 meters dash at Cambridge in mid-June in which Chet Bowman won "because his nose was longer than the others," to have been the greatest sprint race he had witnessed. And Col. Thompson had been going to athletic contests for a good many years.Digressing a moment, it is a fact that few of us will forget that race, and the way in which the plucky Syracuse flash refused to realize that Scholz and Paddock and the others were faster than he, and he proceeded to prove them otherwise.When a race is run so fast that Le Coney and Murchison seem to be standing still, then, as the darkey said, "Out of the way there, rabbit." The starter's gun sent them off to a good start that day, with Jackson V. Scholz of the N. Y. A. C. seeming, from the press box, to have somewhat the best of the break. Paddock, who had been slow all week in getting under way, caught Scholz, however, before the field had flashed the first 25 yards.At Paddock's elbow was Frank Hussey, the Brooklyn schoolboy, running like a machine. At the fifty-yard mark, LeConey and Murchison were beaten by a bare stride. Up in the pole lane came the orange jersey of Syracuse.Slowly, although the terrific speed of the runners made his progress difficult to follow, Bowman overtook the flying leaders. Then they were at the tape, and as ScholzLecture at Costa Mesa.

A CURE FOR DISAGREEABLE
CHILDREN

The day is approaching when children with violent tempers will no longer be regarded simply as born disagreeable. A healthy, normally developed and properly cared for child has its noisy and tempestuous days, but it is not habitually ugly and it rarely has tantrums. Physicians and educators know this and are teaching it to parents who have not found it out for themselves.

A recent development in the field of child-hygiene is that of expert treatment for youngsters who do have such bad habits as temper tantrums, destructiveness, pugnacity and so on. All these and also acute shyness and sudden extreme variations in personality are treated at the habit clinics for young children conducted by the Community Health Association of Boston and directed by a child specialist in that city.

The clinics attempt to correct the undesirable conduct or personality defects of children and to promote their mental health, just as health clinics try to cure physical defects and promote bodily health.

Out of 130 children treated at the Boston habit clinics in 1923, less than one-sixth failed to improve. More than 100 youngsters were placed in happier adjustment to their homes and families and playmates.

When other communities take up similar work there will be fewer "bad" or "spoiled" youngsters and despairing parents. To any one who truly loves children this is cause for real rejoicing.

Contrary to an apparent belief, self-government is not the kind that will run itself without the people's taking any hand in it.—Nashville Banner.

RAH! RAH! FOR EUROPE

Europe will be full of American yells this summer. And if trans-Atlantic shipping is to be saved from financial ruin, evidently it is to be saved by college students and their money.

American, British and French lines are eagerly bidding now for student traffic to Europe, to fill a steerage otherwise nearly empty since immigration was knocked in the head by restriction laws.

The college student has never been thought of before as a very profitable subject to do business with, even by college boarding houses. He seldom has more than enough money to pay his tuition and next week's room rent, not to mention the more essential costs of tobacco, shows, athletics and dancing parties. But there is a tremendous lot of him, numerically speaking. It is possible to gather up a good many thousands of students capable of producing the modest sum of $236 or thereabouts for a trip to Europe and back, and so the shipping men are busily harvesting them in this commencement season.

A trip to Europe is a fine way to spend the summer vacation and a particularly fine way to end up a college course. Hereafter, if the Atlantic liners wax rich from such patronage, no college degree will be considered valid unless supplemented by an Old World tour.

Be it said, too, that college students are usually able to get more enjoyment and benefit out of Europe than tired business men and retired capitalists. Wherefore Europe is welcome to whatever it gets out of them.

Another way to put an end to war would be to have Jack Dempsey's manager arrange for them. He'd make fighting so costly no country could afford it.—Macon Telegraph.

FRIENDLY WITH SINNERS

Of all the "movements" in New York City, there is none more remarkable than the social enterprise known as the Marshall Stillman Movement. Its latest activity is an effort to raise $100,000 to build what the New York World calls "a clubhouse for gunmen and lawbreakers on the lower West Side."

That sounds questionable, to put it mildly. It is enough to give many a respectable citizen an apoplectic stroke. To think of soliciting money for such an outrageous purpose! What can those crazy social workers be aiming at?

Well, right there the World comes in with a bit of explanation, which may or may not be convincing. The Marshall Stillman Movement, it appears, is the only social enterprise that treats the criminal as a human being, not necessarily an enemy or unclean. "It deliberately makes friends with the crooks. It refuses to squeal on them. It chums with them and gives them a chance when they need it. It does all this without preaching. And it finds that under this treatment many of the crooks begin to reform themselves—even insist on reforming themselves."

When you think of it, the Founder of a much greater movement treated sinners that way.

The United Lutheran Church will be asked to endorse just wars. It should be borne in mind that our own wars always are just.—New York Morning Telegraph.

WADING POOLS

The newest thing in parks is a "wading park." New York has just established one. It is for the younger children, safer than the sea beach and not so far from the homes of its patrons.

There is plenty of water, but it is not more than two feet deep. There thousands of children can wade and splash and get wet to their hearts' content, and be treated to showers besides if they fail to do a thorough showering job themselves, and parents, nurses and elder sister will be less subject to heart failure while watching them. In the winter the big, shallow pool will be easily convertible into a skating rink.

This is a natural development, merely carrying a little further the idea of wading pools for children in connection with deep swimming pools for grown-ups.

Every town ought to have such a place, either natural or artificial. Children in New York or anywhere else may be trusted to take full advantage of it. Only, if the pool is man-made, there should be some effort to cover up its artificiality and add a few features really interesting to children, such as swamp grass, mud, stones, clam shells and pollywogs—especially pollywogs.

TO OVERCOME HATRED

Here is one of the wise things said to students at this commencement time. The speaker is Rev. Arthur C. McGiffert, president of Union Theological Seminary.

"I see only two forces adequate to overcome the hatred, suspicion and distrust of provincialism. These forces are religion and education.

"I know well enough that religion has often fostered provincialism. But Christianity has been the bearer to the modern world of a principle diametrically opposed to all provincialism—the principle of human brotherhood.

"Education can make us acquainted with other peoples; with their traditions, their institutions, their literature, their philosophy, their science, their ideas and ideals, which can result only in tolerance."

Religion and education are the great human solvents. Put them into an international melting pot, and the materials will really melt and mingle.

It has been observed often, and especially during the World war, that really religious men of any race or creed can meet on common ground and understand each other. The same is true of really cultured men, whatever their blood or origin.

"Moral insanity" is a fine phrase, and a useful one. None of us are quite sane, psychologists say. And when a hold-up man takes your money or the waiter short-changes you, it's nothing but a little touch of moral insanity.

"Sauce For the Goose"

Sacramento Union

Will C. Wood, state superintendent of public instruction, has ruled that it is not permissible under the law for interested persons to hold an essay contest in the public schools of California on "Why Coolidge Should Be Returned to the White House." He cites a section of the political code which provides that any school which permits "the teaching of secular or partisan doctrines in the schools" shall be deprived of its apportionment of state school money.

This interpretation of the law by Mr. Wood is sound, and his implication that such a contest as was proposed would be improper is likewise sound. As he says, there is no more reason why school children should debate on why Calvin Coolidge should be President than on why Eugene V. Debs should be President. If they are interested, as they ought to be, there are other places in which they may properly express their opinions.

In approving Superintendent Wood's position in this matter, however, the Union believes that what is sauce for the goose should be sauce for the gander. It does not believe that it is proper, for instance, for office-seekers continually to harangue bodies of school teachers or bodies of school alumni on such questions as may be thus stated. Why should Fred Richardson be turned out of the governor's chair? Why should Will C. Wood be elected to take his place? Keep the public schools out of politics!

American Poet Laureate

Stockton Independent

An organization has been formed with two avowed objects—to bring about the establishment of the post of poet laureate of America and to honor Edwin Markham as the first poet laureate. The movement started in Miami, Fla., after Markham had spoken there.

Californians may feel flattered that one of their distinguished number should be thus honored, but it is doubtful if America needs or wants a poet laureate. We have many poets, singing in minor keys, of many phases of American life, but none since the prime of Whitman who has even faintly caught the spirit and meaning of our American life. Certainly the theme of "The Man With the Hoe" can in no sense be said to interpret America. Its inspiration was foreign and it was not intended as an indictment of American working conditions, although many at the time of its publication accepted it as such.

A poet laureate would not give either impetus or inspiration to the American school of poetry. It is a real school, it has developed naturally and is largely indigenous to our social and political soil. It is independent both in theme and treatment. It is no longer a feeble imitation of English or continental one poet or his work as the approved voice of the models.

The movement had better be permitted to work out its own development, without setting up any muse in America.

Which Do We Want?

Riverside Press

The League of California Municipalities at a meeting to be held soon at Pasadena is going to consider plans for an attack upon the funds now collected by means of gasoline tax, in order to divert a certain percentage of such moneys to the municipalities. The Facts is against any such thing, because it would mean a higher gasoline tax. The more the tax is split up, the greater will be the demand for a higher tax, so that the state and county shares shall not be depleted. Always it is for more taxes; always a search for new places to get the money. That is to be expected, for municipal and county and state authorities see so many places where money can be spent, and to seeming advantage. The question is, do we want these improvements, or do we want the lower taxes the more?

That Body of Yours

By James W. Barton, M. D.

A THOUGHT FOR HOT WEATHER.

You have watched a workman during the hot weather, as the perspiration streamed down his face.

You have had to do some physical work yourself, during the hot weather, and the perspiration has likewise poured from your face and body. And you have been told that if you were to take hot drinks in the summer, it would make you perspire and so cool your entire body.

Now, does this exercising of the body really relieve you of some heat? Well, suppose you take into your system a certain amount of food. Nearly three-fourths of it is meant to maintain the heat of the body. The other fourth is to maintain or repair the tissues that you use up by your muscular movements.

By exercising, the muscles use up material from the blood; heat is manufactured, and, in order to get out of the body, comes to the surface—the skin—and is given out to the atmosphere, which is cooler than the body. The perspiration not only has water in it, but actually contains waste matter also, and of course that waste matter is thereby removed from the body to the surrounding atmosphere.

Perspiration, then, not only relieves you of some of your heat, in a little less time, but also gets rid of waste matter for you. So that if you eat meals of fair size in the summer, you will get rid of your heat a little sooner by exercising. Further, the keeping up of a better circulation, and the strengthening of the heart beat, means that all wastes will get to their destination outside the body in less time.

If, on the other hand, you decide to take things very easily indeed, and do nothing whatever, then cut down on your food supply all around. Your body will not need it for heat or energy. But there is just one point about all this that is forgotten very often. This sitting around, doing nothing will beget sluggishness of liver and intestine that is serious in hot weather.

Some one has well said, "The best refrigerant of the body in hot weather, is an empty large intestine." Sluggishness of the circulation from inactivity of the body means absorption of the wastes into the blood itself. Movement, activity of the body, will hurry your wastes out of the body.

If you will not, or cannot take exercise, then eat fruits and whole wheat bread, or even take a dose of castor oil occasionally.

He Loves Me, He Loves Me Not

A STOLEN KISS

Now gentle sleep hath closed up those eyes
Which, waking, kept my boldest thoughts in awe;
And free access unto that sweet lip lies.
From whence I long the rosy breath to draw.
Methinks no wrong it were if I should steal
From those melting rubies, one poor kiss;
None sees the theft that would the theft reveal.
Nor rob I her of aught what she can miss:
Nay, should I twenty kisses take away,
There would be little sign I would do so;
Why, then, should I this robbery delay?
Oh, may she wake, and therewith angry grow!
Well, if she do, I'll back restore that one.
And twenty hundred thousand more for loan.

George Withers

Spiritual Teaching Practical

Visalia Delta

Even without the example before us of the failure of mere intellectuality as a guide for conduct, in the case of the young, "intellectuals" of Chicago, who took a human life just to get a "kick" out of it, educators for some time have been complaining that modern education lacks in spirituality, and that more attention should be paid to culture of ideals, and less merely to practical subjects. In the last analysis, the things of the spirit will be found the most practical because they are the only real and permanent things in life. All materialism fades and passes; only thoughts live. Something of this kind was expressed recently by Professor T. C. Cherry before the Kentucky Educational Association.

"Public schools must meet the perils of the hour not only by war on illiteracy, but through mental and spiritual culture; the commercialism of the age is a menace to coming generations. 'Teaching thrift' in the schools is fraught with danger. Savings bank accounts among the children tend to commercialize their ideals. It is not the function of the schools to make business successes of the children, but to make them men and women of high character and culture."

Prof. F. D. Slutz of Dayton, O., listed the most striking signs of the present times as follows:

(1) Recognition that there is no authority except truth, (2) annihilation of distances, (3) domination of men by machinery, (4) crowd rule, (5) excessive strain and (6) spiritual hunger.

He would meet these conditions by:
(1) Teaching boys and girls how to distinguish between theory and truth, (2) acquainting them thoroughly with the other nations of the world, (3) giving them plenty of music and art to make amends for the dominance of the machine, (4) encouraging individuality and initiative rather than conformity, (5) redeeming physical education from the curse of specialized athletics, and (6) teaching the great spiritual truths.

How we are to do some of these things, and yet exclude from the schools the greatest spiritual textbook of the universe, the Bible, is another problem for the educators to consider. In the day of the men who founded this nation, the Bible was a familiar companion in the homes and in the school. Today it is excluded from the schools, lies dust covered in most families, and is only used in churches, and there it is frequently misinterpreted. There is, however, a growing demand that the strings of prejudice be cut away from the children of the land be given the opportunity to study the Bible in the places where they study the facts of the material universe. Then, perhaps, we will overcome the danger of a lopsided education that loses sight of the great spiritual truths of existence, and produces "intellectual" freaks, mentality and no soul.

Tom Sims Says

Just when it looked as if crimes would slack up a bit, people started asking, "Well, is it hot enough for you?" The fellow who has been hating to carry out the ashes has started hating to cut the weeds.

Most people who have nothing to do make the mistake of doing it. Lots of people think the world owes them five or six livings.

Us fellows started to yell and whistle for Sid Hunt errand in the alley in back of his house, and Sid stuck his head out his window saying, I aint allowed out.

Wy not? us fellows sed, and Sid sed, Sassing my mother back. Wy dont you fellows go errand frunt and diffrent ones keep ring- ing our door bell and ask if I can come out and see if that will do ery good, he sed.

Sounding like an intrinsing ideer anyway, and we went errand, and Puds Simkins, rang Sid Hunts door bell while the rest of us hid behind the steps, and Mrs. Hunt came to the door saying, Well, Charles, I suppose you'd like to know if Sidney can come out.

Yes, mam, Puds sed. Well he cant, and all boys who are impudent to their mothers should be treeted the same way, Mrs. Hunt sed.

And she shut the door and Puds came back in the vestibule and Sam Cross went out and rang the bell and Mrs. Hunt opened the door agen and Sam sed, Can Sid come out?

Most ematically not, Mrs. Hunt sed. And she closed the door even faster and harder than wat she closed it for Puds Simkins, and Sam came back in the vestibule and I went out and rang the bell and Mrs. Hunt opened the door saying, Wat? another one? No, Sidney cant come out under ery circumstances. Are there any more boys errand or expected errand? she sed.

Yes mam, about 10, I sed. And Mrs. Hunt shut the door so suddin I jest got my foot away in time, and I went back in the vestibule and my cuzzin Artie was jest going to ring the bell and stus. Hunt opened the door and stus a peice of paper over the bell and went in agen with- out even asking Artie wat he wanted, the paper saying on it, Do not ring, Sidney can not come out. Proving our ideers mite werk oftener if other people didnt have ideers of their own.

Builders of the New Kiva

Rocky Mountain News

The strangers within our gates, coming under their banners of Blue and White, symbols of Idealism and Purity, are well worthy to hold the keys to this Half-way House of the Continent. They are engaged in a great undertaking.

They are raising a structure to the Known God in which all who love their fellows may worship without question. Its cornerstone is Fairdealing; its archstone is Charity, which is Love. Its pillars are Comradship, Service, Tolerance, Helpfulness. Those who would view the Kiva which Kiwanians are building must have their mortal eyes opened, their vision cleansed, their minds made responsive to what the building stands for, otherwise they are blind and cannot see it, much less enter it. To appreciate the work being done the spirit must be aroused in man. This temple is not being constructed of dead brick and stone and of timber that must decay. The material which we have in mind is of a different character and, strange to state, it grows stronger with the years and the added weight which it may be called on to carry. It is a structure being built of good deeds with humanity's trowel. The cement is not of blood wrrenched from the suffering of the weak and oppressed. The bindery is all-embracing, delicately made of generous deeds and the heartbeats of man toward his fellowman. Within it are rods of steel made of the muscles of heroes. The spans are of the handclaps of Kiwanians and the spans are not dead but living, ever-expanding, having no limit to their reach.

In the Holy of Holies is an Altar to Childhood. It is veiled with gossamer robes of Charity. It is for the one who by the laws of Karma is born into the world with a handicap for which it cannot be held responsible. On that Altar grown man enters his heart purified to remove the handicap upon the child and give it a start in the world. When he enters the sacred place he becomes as a child himself, with the heart of a Child and it is good for him to be there.

The temple-builders are not of one nation or of one blood. They believe in Internationalism that does not take away the right kind of patriotism. They believe in the day "when man to man the world o'er shall brothers be and all within the temple they gather in a spirit of perfect equality. Their businesses and professions are many, but they are as one under the Kiwanian banner. They have come together to know one another better, to make life more cheerful, to give encouragement to the weak and faltering in a true spirit of fellowship and comradship. "Not that men are poor; All men know something of poverty.

Not that men are wicked; Who can claim to be good? Not that men are ignorant; Who can boast that he is wise? But that men are strangers!"

The International Convention of Kiwanis Clubs represents a power for good in this world that has lost in recent years several of its sociological props. We ask that Denver give to the Kiwanians this week what the Kiwanians would do as Kiwanians to one another, and to man his brother wherever the Kiwanian handclasp can reach.

Lost Mines

Of all legends of buried treasure, the most persistent is the one about the lost gold mines of Arizona. Only the Indians are supposed to possess the secret of this baffling mystery, although the story has been circulated for more than a century.

That there once were mines in the region is indicated by references found in early Spanish diaries and by the tales passed down through several generations of natives who were compelled to dig the ore as slaves of their conquerors. The chief evidence in support of the tradition is the altar of the San Xavier mission, not far from Tucson. It is described as being "inlaid with virgin gold." Mission records show that the precious metal was brought from Canada del Oro where it was mined by Indians under the direction of Spanish priests.

But no trace now exists of the diggings, and the old trail over which the gold is said to have been carried by pack mules disappears abruptly in the sands.—Popular Mechanics.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
by Olive Roberts Barton

NO. 13—A TRIP TO IRELAND

"Are you awake?" called Johnny Jump Up, the garden fairy, through the children's window. "Y—yes!" said Nick sleepily, sitting up in bed and rubbing his eyes.

"Oh, hello, Johnny!" he called. "Are we going anywhere to-night?"

"Yes, indeedie," answered the jolly little fellow, "and a long trip it will be. Hop out of bed both of you and get dressed and slip on these magic shoes as fast as you can. Tommy Titmouse is eating bugs in the garden and if we don't get him out of that pretty soon, he'll be too full to carry us to the barn and back!"

In a very few minutes the Twins were ready and quickly followed Johnny Jump Up down the rose vine.

"My goodness!" chirped old Mrs. Robin sleepily as she opened one eye and saw them in the moonlight. "The rose bugs are thick this year. I'll have to be paying that rose vine a visit to-morrow."

For she thought the fairymen and his two tiny friends were rose bugs. And no wonder! The way the Twins had shrunk to everything when they put on their magic shoes!

Over in a corner of the garden was a patch of something that looked like clover. But it wasn't clover. It was shamrock. And right in the middle of the shamrock patch stood a tiny Irishman smoking a pipe.

"Good evening, Pat," said Johnny Jump Up. "Meet Nancy and Nick."

"Good evening," said the tiny fellow tipping his hat like a great gentleman. "May the saints bless ye both."

"Did you bring us the tickets, Pat?" asked Johnny Jump Up. "Sure and I did," declared the kind little man with a merry twinkle in his eye. "Far be it from meself to kape anny one away from such a fine place as Oirland. When the Fairy Queen sent me word that you wanted to pay that fine country a visit, I sez to myself, sez I, I'll take those tickets to those little spalpeens do! And here they are."

"Come, Tommy Titmouse, called Johnny. "You've had enough bugs for a while. Got room for three passengers?"

"Outside I have," groaned Tommy. "Not inside."

So they all got on and away he flew.

It was broad daylight when they got to the green.

"Jily, but it's green," said Nick. And indeed it did look like an emerald lying in the sea.

People think there is nothing in Ireland but pigs and pipes," said Johnny Jump Up, "but that's foolishness. Of course there are some pigs, I must say, but—

"Oh, there are some now!" cried Nancy. "The cutest little things!"

"Sure, and cows and chickens and goats and everything," said Johnny. "But wait and I'll show you some fine big cities and some castles, too. There! That city is Dublin. See what a busy place it is."

And after they had flown further and he pointed out another city. "That's Cork," he said.

"Cork!" cried the Twins merrily. "What a funny name."

"And that's Belfast," said Johnny when they came to the third town.

"What funny names Irish cities have!" said the Twins. "We won't forget."

"And don't forget to go home," said the timouse. "I ate too many bugs and I'm sleepy."
